HERRIN TRIAL NEARING CLOSE

MARION, Ill., April 6.—Jurors in the second Herrin massacre trial were urged to return a verdict of guilty and clear the name of "Bloody" Williamson county by Otis Glenn, assistant attorney general, in closing arguments today. The prosecution opened its arguments after final testimony was presented by the defense.

KICKING POWER IS IN QUESTION

WATERLOO, Ia., April 6.—Page King Solomon!

Twelve good men and true will be called upon here to decide the relative kicking ability of a mule and a horse.

Comes now, D. Shepard, who avers his mule was outkicked by a horse owned by Louis Burochoff. The current of Shepards legal complaint with legal verbage runs in this vein:

"December 25, 1922, he owned a mule and said mule was in best of health and did not have a blemish and said mule was worth $150.

"Defendant was owner of a black horse which was mean and vicious.

"While plaintiff was leading said mule, the aforementioned horse kicked plaintiffs mule on the left rear leg in the hock, thereby rendering said mule useless and said mule cannot place his foot upon the ground." Shepard is suing for $150.

REAL MOTHER GETS CHILD

Mrs. Smith No. 1 Successful in Battle for Possession of Two-Year-Old Baby.

OMAHA, April 6.—When Charles A. Smith was arrested on a bigamy charge today, his two wives met at central police station and battled for the possession of a petty two-year-old baby boy, Hubert Smith, son of wife No. 1, but mothered for the past year by wife No. 2.

"I can't bear to give him up," sobbed No. 2, hugging him close.

"You will have to give him up," declared the real mother, displaying a legal document giving her possession of Hubert.

The boy drew away from her outstretched arms and cried in sympathy with Mrs. Smith No. 2.

But the real mother won, and the weeping foster-mother went home and returned with Hubert's baby clothes and playthings which she turned over to wife No. 1.

Smith was arrested on a warrant sworn out in November, 1920. Mrs. Smith No. 1 said she was granted a divorce in July, 1921.

"I tried to have him arrested when he married again in 1920, but he got away from me," she said.

SECRETLY WED

MISS EVELYN BRENT.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—The beautiful lady who plays opposite Douglas Fairbanks in his latest film production is no longer a bachelor girl. Miss Evelyn Brent, who is or was the "beautiful bachelor girl" in question, disappeared from the movie lot here last November for a few weeks to take a "rest." Folks wondered a bit, because she didn't look a bit tired, and now the news is out. She isn't Miss Brent any more. Miss Brent's "rest" consisted of a trip to New York City, where she married B. P. Fineman, a film producer with headquarters here.

POSTAL DEFICIT LARGER

Department Is Handicapped by Shortage of Funds as Postal Business Increases.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Handicapped by a shortage of funds for the remainder of the present fiscal year, the postoffice department today was struggling under added deficit as the postal business of the country continued to increase.

March Postal receipts at fifty selected cities, amounting to $27,900,000, exceeded those of March, 1922 by $3,500,000, an increase of nearly 15 per cent. With the exception of January, when the increase was 19. per cent, it was the greatest percentage increase of any month this year. DesMoines increased 17.16 per cent.

COST OF LIVING IS LESS

Slightly Decreases in Fifteen Cities in Month From February 15 to March 15.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The cost of living during the period from February 15 to March 15 decreased in fifteen cities and increased in ten others, the department of labor reported today.

The drop, however, was extremely small.

SWEDISH CABINET RESIGNS

STOCKMOLM, April 6.—The Swedish cabinet headed by Hjalmar Branting, resigned today following rejection of the government's bill providing aid for the unemployed.

HAPPY ON $50 WEEK, WIFE FINDS RICHES BRING ONLY MISERY

The men shown, besides Tabert, are prominent North Dakotans who are pushing the inquiry.

NEW YORK.—"When he made $50 a week we were happy, my husband and I," said Mrs. Sally White, suing for divorce here, "but now that he has an income of $150,000 a year he beats me and treats me as if I were his slave, and not his wife."

Mrs. White, who married at twenty-one, is unusually pretty. They have a four-year-old daughter, Elaine.

"We had everything in the world to make us happy, but we were miserable," she testified. "For all the luxuries he gave me I paid the highest price in the power of woman to pay. The best years of my life I spent in misery and fear. I remained with him for the sake of our child, but now I can stand it no longer."

URGE RECEIVER FOR KLAN

GOVERNOR TO EXERT HIS RIGHT TO VETO

He Expresses No Grief Over Report That Senate Proposes to Kill the Dysart-Mathers Code Bills.

"The contemplated action of the senate committee which will smother the Dysart-Mathers code bills is not surprising to me," said Governor Bryan Friday. The principal in them is so bad from a business and governmental point of view, I could not see how the senate could approve them and place them before the people as the work of the republican party. The bills reenact the code and brings the departments under the new constitution and makes them new executive officers. Under the Dysart bill there would be five governors and under the Mathers bill there would be six, with equal power in conflict with the constitution. The bills might have the political permit of getting hold of all patronage heretofore vested in the government, but at the sacrifice of the business of the taxpayers."

Governor Bryan had heard that Speaker Mathers had ruled that items in appropriation bill that are in the governor's budget must be voted upon separately and receive a three-fifths vote to pass. The governor is also informed the attorney general holds a vote as to the whole bill governs and if the bill receives fifty-one votes the anti-budget items are carried with the bill.

The governor said log rolling and an attempt to deprive him of his constitutional powers is apparent. He proposes to exercise his constitutional power and veto any item in an appropriation bill.

The budget law appears to make it plain that if an appropriation not in the budget receives a three-fifths vote the governor cannot veto it, yet an older provision of the conshtitution empowers the governor to veto any item in an appropriation bill.

HELICOPTER UP 17 FEET

Major Bane Expects to Go Still Higher on Next Flight.

DAYTON, O., April 6.—Maj. T. H. Bane, retired commandant at McCook field today attained an altitude of seventeen feet in the De Bothezaat helicopter, and expected to go still higher on his next flight, which may occur tomorrow.

The rebel governor is reported in flight.

MARRIED FIFTY-FIVE YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Wiley Came to This State in 1872 Settling at Elkton.

CARLETON, Neb., April 6. — The fifty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Wiley will be celebrated April 14. The bride of so long ago was born in New York. The groom, Charles P. Wiley, was born in Logan county, Illinois. The wedding took place in Elkhart, Ill., in 1868. Mr. Wiley enlisted for service in the civil war in August, 1861. He was discharged March 20, 1866, from company F, thirty-eighth Illinois infantry.

He, with his wife and children located at Elkton, Neb., in 1872. This was near the little Blue river. Later they moved on a farm near Edgar, Neb. Death there took Wilson, aged eight years, January 12, 1879. July 29, 1922, death claimed their oldest daughter, Nora. Two children remain, Henry of this town, and Mrs. Myrtle Childers of Fairbury, Neb.

In 1881 Mr. and Mrs. Wiley moved to Carleton and have made this their home ever since. He is a member of the G. A. R. here. He is always with the "boys" on Decoration day, the past eighty-three years of age, to place flowers on the graves of his comrades.

The records of the church and different lodges here, contain the names of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley. She was an active member in the W. C. T. U., is only a few years younger than her husband and like him does not take an active part in any organization now outside of being a faithful member of the home department of the Sunday school. The outstanding feature of their lives is kindness to humanity. All thru the years when neighbors were in trouble, caused by illness, death, want, whatever their needs, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley have always been willing to help in any way they could, the rich or poor, the high or low.

CHILD OF WEALTH LEARNS REAL WORK

MISS ELIZABETH DENNISON.

The daughter of Henry S. Dennison, the millionaire manufacturer of Framingham, Mass., is a co-operative student at Antioch college in Ohio, and under its rules spends every alternate five weeks as a regular worker in a Dayton factory. She starts on her job at 7 a. m. and works eight hours. She is a girl in her teens. She says she has learned that "real work with real people" means real life and happiness.

TWENTY-SEVEN HURT IN WRECK IN IOWA

Only Four Badly Injured, Checkup of Accident on Great Western Near Marshalltown Reveals.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., April 6.—Twenty-seven persons were injured in last night's wreck of Chicago Great Western train No. 3, Minneapolis to Kansas City, three miles east of this city, a complete checkup this afternoon showed. Only four were badly hurt. They were:

D. R. McNaught, Minneapolis, deep gash in head, nose broken, hand injured.

Mrs. Luther Ray, Marshalltown, bad scalp wound, bruised.

Mrs. Ella Montis, leg and side injured.

S. R. Twitty, Conway, Ark., head injured, badly bruised.

All the other injured sustained only minor bruises and cuts.

TWO MILLIONS IN THE LOOT

ST. LOUIS, April 6.—St. Louis federal land bank bonds totaling more than $2,000,000 were included in the lott of the mail robbery staged here last Monday, it was learned today.

The bonds, printed in Washington, were on their way to the local bank and lacked the signatures of the president and secretary.

Authorities, however, fear the bandits will forge the signatures and attempt to dispose of them.

Additional bonds, totalling $225,000 were in the nine registered mail sacks, stolen by six armed bandits from a government armored motor truck. Of these at least $81,000 worth of bonds were negotiable it was learned.

WEEKS WARNS OF PROPAGANDA

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Secretary of War Weeks today charged that misleading information is being broadcast regarding the amount of money being expended for national defense. He took the occasion of the sixth anniversary of America's entrance into the war to warn the public of movements which he believed have for their purpose the undermining of the army and navy.

"These people," Weeks said, "include those forces in America who are preaching revolution and the establishment of a communistic government and also those who seem to believe that any army or navy is unnecessary.

"Unfortunately these elements, who are a very small minority of our people, are supported by large bodies of patriotic citizens, men and women who lacking information of the true situation and apparently unwilling to be governed by the experience of the past are lending themselves to reduce if not destroy the military safeguards of the nation."

Judge—Why did you jump into the fight? It was none of your affair.

POPE SENDS CLOTHING AND FOOD TO THE NEEDY IN SOVIET RUSSIA

ARMENIAN ORPHANS AT PAPAL SUMMER PALACE AT CASTELGONDOLFO (Their Chins Branded With Hot Irons by Turks.)

ROME.—Pope Pius XI continues to take the keenest interest in the fate of the famine-stricken Russians. He has just shipped to Russia another consignment of sixty tons of clothing for them, with cotton, buttons and hooks, all of which are rarer than rubies in the land of the soviets. Besides this, the holy see feeds 60,000 persons daily in the provinces where the pope's delegation has Lenin's permission to work.

If his constant appeals for help are listened to by Catholics all the world over as his holiness hopes and expects, he will have opened a new center of distribution in the province of Orenburg, in the Ural mountains, right on the confines of Asiatic Russia.

Nor does he forget the poor and hungry of central Europe; he has just sent to Cardinals Bertram, Schulte, Falhauber and Piffl the sum of 1,000,000 lire for the needy in those parts. In Greece, too, he has been doing the work of charity. All the Greek refugees under the care of the holy see are concentrated in the Greek part of Dedeagatch and more than a million lire have already been spent on them by the pope's emissaries.

In addition, the pope is giving a home to several hundred Armenian orphans at the Papal summer palace at Castelgondolfo, a few miles from Rome. These refugees are under the care of the nuns who brought them from Asia Minor.

FROM FACTORY GIRL TO GRAND OPERA FAME

From a factory girl to fame in grand opera is the career of Elizabeth Wakefield, an English girl, who has scored a triumph with the Carl Rosa Opera Company, in London. Miss Wakefield was once employed in a clothing factory. Her recent appearance, in "Samson et Delilia," was called a finished performance by London music critics.

TWO YOUNG WOMEN MURDERED

VICTORY NOT PEACE TOKEN

Pershing Says Vital Problems of World Unsolved.

A WORD FOR PREPAREDNESS

No One Can Foresee When Armies Are Needed.

Moral Forces of Country Needed as Much Today, Anniversary of Entry Into War, as Armed Forces in 1917.

[illegible] anniversary of America's entry into the great war finds vital problems growing out of it still unsolved Gen. John J. Pershing declared today.

"Victory has not brought peace" he states adding that no one can foresee the day when armies will not be needed, despite our hopes for universal tranquility.

By John J. Pershing.

The sixth anniversary of our sudden entry into the greatest of all wars vividly recalls our pathetic lack of trained officers and men, and our otherwise deplorable condition of unreadiness.

Yet nothing daunted, our people promptly resolved to act, as the moment was critical and modern civilization itself hung in the balance.

Amid great confusion and at enormously increased cost but with the nation solidly behind us, our armies were hastily organized and instructed as far as time would permit, and hurriedly sent to European battlefields.

Inspired by the loftiest ideals, their vigorous and decisive action eventually saved the allies from defeat.

But victory has not brought peace and the world is still disturbed. Vital problems growing out of the war in which we participated remain unsolved.

After reaching a commanding position during the war, America cannot now look complacently upon this situation, but must realize that there will be neither stability nor prosperity until friendly relations shall be reached by the nations lately at war, and until the tendencies toward the dissolution of organized society shall be overcome.

The moral forces of our country are needed as much today as our armed forces in 1917.

Moreover, in the face of these conditions and our own experience, and altho the hope of universal peace lies in every heart, it must be said that no man is wise enough to foresee the day when our armies may be needed.

VESPER CONCERT ON SUNDAY

High School Orchestra, Assisted by Homer Compton, Will Give Sixth of Series.

Because of the inclement weather, the sixth number of the Sunday concert series at the high school had to be postponed and it will be given in the high school auditorium this coming Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in answer to repeated requests. It will be given by the high school orchestra under the direction of Charles B Righter, jr., assisted by Homer K Compton, tenor. Those who were disappointed by reason of the postponement of the number on March 18 will be especially anxious to hear this program. The doors of the high school auditorium will be open at 2:15 Sunday afternoon and the concert will begin promptly at 3 o'clock.

WRECK INJURES THREE

Chicago Great Western Passenger Goes Into Ditch Near Marshalltown, Ia.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., April 6—Three women were injured when a Chicago Great Western passenger train bound from Minneapolis to Kansas City went into the ditch near here last night.

One coach was overturned. It contained many women delegates returning from the state convention of the [illegible] auxiliary at Waterloo, Ia.

The injured were brought here by automobile. They were: Mrs. D. A. Gish, Des Moines, right leg injured; Mrs. [illegible] Ives, Des Moines, face cuts and Mrs. Luther Ray, Marshalltown, scalp wounds. A few others were slightly hurt.

A relief train was sent from here to the scene of the accident. The wreck was said to have been caused by a broken rail.

TWO CLUBS WILL NOT JOIN

Lincoln and University Organizations Unable to Come to Satisfactory Arrangement.

Directors of the Lincoln club met Thursday evening and decided to go ahead with their plans as originally outlined. These plans were held up by the suggestion that the Lincoln and University clubs might merge to the advantage of both and of the community. Directors of the two clubs held a joint session a few days ago at which it appeared that no agreement could be reached, due principally to different ideas of financing the projected joint enterprise. The Lincoln club is accordingly going ahead with its own plans which include the early obtaining and furnishing of quarters down to [illegible] ... a number of [illegible]

MILLION AWAITS HIM IN SWEDEN

Carl E. Bergson, eighteen years old, is heir to a millionaire's fortune. When he came to this country he and his mother stopped at one of the exclusive hotels in New York city. He intends to become a hotel man and decided to learn the business by beginning at the bottom. Carl and his mother now have an apartment, but when they were living in an $18 a day suite in the hotel he would leave by the front door, go to the employes' entrance, don his bobtailed dress suit and go to work, after punching the time clock. Young Bergson's father is a high officer in the Swedish army.

this and other work, which he expects to name in the near future.

TRAFFIC BULGE A SURPRISING THING AT THIS TIME.

More Cars Loaded Every Day Than Last Year for the Same Period Is the Present Record.

General Manager E. Flynn of the Burlington lines west, in Lincoln Friday for a day with local officials of the road, reported that freight traffic continues to grow, that more car loads of grain and stock are being moved every day than for the corresponding period of a year ago, and that not only is carload movement increasing but the less than car loadings are beginning to show a growth since the storm brought business to a standstill.

Mr. Flynn was on his way to Denver where he will look after terminal matters during an inspection trip. While in Lincoln he went over the work being done on the Lincoln yard changes. Here the hump is being taken out of the yards, changing from a hump to a flat yard. The hump feature has not been used for two years and after it was discovered that traffic here could be handled for less money thru the yards without the hump plans were made to remove it. That work is now under way, the new water treating plant is in use and the trouble over salt in the water is being gradually done away with by finding new sources of supply where water can be secured without drawing too hard on the wells.

Mr. Flynn reports traffic conditions as ideal barring the short period of storm interference.

COMPROMISE MAIL DISPUTE

Halford R. Thomas Will Receive the Letters of the Lincoln School Supply Company.

Halford R. Thomas will receive the letters mailed to the Lincoln School Supply company, and will distribute it as justly as possible between Sam C. Stephenson and Dan S. Cochran who have been in a dispute as to who was entitled to receive the mail.

Mr. Stephenson recently obtained a temporary order restraining Mr. Cochran from interfering with the delivery of letters to the school supply company, but the order was dissolved Thursday afternoon. Mr. Stephenson claimed that he and Mr. Cochran had agreed to incorporate the school supply company but that in the meantime Mr. Cochran refused to allow him access to the company's mail. Mr. Thomas is to distribute the mail according to agreement of the disputants and where they cannot agree it is to be held until further order of the court.

COUNTRY SCHOOLS BIG PROBLEM

ALBANY, April 6. The country school is a problem to state educators. Recent figures from the New York department of education showed that twelve country schools in New York state had an average daily attendance of only one pupil. The number of schools having an average attendance of ten or less was [illegible]. On the other hand, De Witt Clinton high school in New York has 6,472 pupils registered.

WILL STAND 1,000 YEARS

WHAT CHARLEY OLSON SAYS OF WALLS OF NEW CAPITOL.

Solid Mass of Concrete in Foundation Makes It Immaterial Whether the Stones in It Overlap Very Much.

Charles Olson, who told the legislative investigators that he has built half the large structures in Lincoln, testified Friday morning that in his opinion the walls would stand for a thousand years. He was called by Mr. Goodhue to contradict the testimony of James Webber, veteran mason and contractor, who said that because of the large joints and the failure to lay the stones so that one overlapped the other sufficiently, would result in stones falling out within twenty years.

Mr. Olson further qualified as a taxpayer, owning $350,000 worth of property. He said that the old-time masons provided wide overlapping because the foundation walls were then of stone only, and that if the foundation of this building were only of stone he would say the walls are being improperly constructed. The fifteen feet of solid concrete that forms the foundation of the new capitol makes this overlapping of no importance, and he said that it permitted artistic variations. It was pointed out that these variations occur only in one part of the walls.

Se said he had looked at the walls five or six times as the work progressed, and that it is a perfect job. The heavy joints are not made of mortar, but of Portland cement that will in time become harder than stone, and no ill effects from water will be possible. There is no chance for decay. He said the bonding of which Mr. Johnson complained was the finest he ever put his eyes on, and the wall will stand for a thousand years so far as the mortar and stone are concerned.

Mr. Johnson said he had asked Mr. Olson to look at the stone samples, and also stones in the wall and sought to get him to repeat what he said. It contained some vigorous profanity attached to a declaration of the rottenness of the stone.

"Why, Mr. Johnson," he said. "I never said anything of the kind. I have never sworn all my life."

"But that was your opinion, leaving out the swear words?" asked Chairman Wiltse.

"Yes, but there were only a few of these bad stones."

Another Estimate of Cost.

Mr. Johnson, during the morning, called attention to an estimate of the cost of the new capitol, made a year ago by Mr. Murray of Goodhue's staff. This gave $3,600,000 for the first section, $4,021,000 for the second and $1,500,000 for the tower, a total of over 9 millions. Mr. Goodhue said that these figures were supplied by one of the most expensive contractors he knows, and Mr. Johnson said that if the 10 per cent necessary to cover architect's fees, field work and other costs, were added to this the cost would be over 10 millions. This is misleading, however, because the first section cost nowhere near the figure given. If the same unit costs prevail for the remainder of the building the total will be a little over 7 millions.

Mr. Thompson brought out that the commission had at all times kept within the appropriations so far, and that the contracts were so drawn that there would be no overlapping of the appropriations.

W. L. Younkin, clerk of the works, and Mr. Goodhue's personal representative on the job, read a reply to the charges of Mr. Johnson insofar as they covered changes in the plans that the engineer said showed incompetency or neglect. He took each up in turn, and explained why it was necessary. Sometimes it was beyond the architect's control, other times that there had been switches in the commission's orders, and the like. He said that balancing the credits against the debits for extras the state had been saved $6,590.

He is an architect himself, and said he regarded a most incompetent the architect who did not find it necessary to make changes in plans as the work progressed to get a better building and save money for his client. He explained why foundation plans were hurried and other details of the progress of plan making. It was necessary to so time the work that as soon as the present legislature gets thru the work of demolition of the two meeting chambers begins so that by two years hence the house and senate will be provided for.

No more or bigger mistakes had been made, he said, on this job than on jobs of like magnitude and that the state had suffered no loss because of changes. In answer to a question of Mr. Johnson he said that he was paid $60 a week while in Goodhue's office in New York, and draws $100 a week here as clerk of the works.

On cross-examination Mr. Johnson questioned the validity of some of the reasons he gave for the changes. He also brought out the fact that some of the contractors had refused to agree to the deductions made in some instances, and others disputed the basis of computation.

Mr. Johnson stated that in the specifications he had drawn it was provided that whenever there was a deduction the state should be credited on the same unit cost basis as it would be debited if any extras were [illegible]

COL. E. H. GREEN IS CONVALESCING FROM OPERATION

E. H. GREEN

Col. Edward H. Green, fifty-five, millionaire son of the late Hetty Green, is cruising in the south convalescing from the effects of a Steinach gland rejuvenation operation five weeks ago. Thru a comedy of errors his death was reported in a newspaper in Texas, where Green has extensive interests, and when word of this reached the capitalist he calmly sent a message. "Kill that obituary about me."

Majority Indicates Desire to Kill Dysart-Mathers Bills and Advance Reed's Senate File No. 2.

At the ringing of the dinner bell Friday the senate stopped right in the middle of Senator Reed's speech on the code question. When this pleasant sound rang thru the senate chamber a recess was taken until 2 o'clock. Enough was said and done before the recess to indicate that there would be no dissenting vote among the republican majority against the advancement of S. F. 2, the senate's own idea of retaining the principles of the civil administrative code form of government.

Chairman Hastings of the committee on miscellaneous subjects, whose committee has voted to kill the Dysart-Mathers code bills from the house, did not report on these bills. They may be allowed a short respite, but in the meantime the senate proposes to push its own code bills and put them thru and up to the house and to the governor.

Hastings proposed taking up S. F. 2 and S. F. 315 in committee of the whole. S. F. 2, introduced by Reed and amended by the standing committee, proposes to make the governor fish or cut bait. The bill furnishes the board. The governor can either appoint secretaries of the six code departments as these departments now stand or he can save the salary of secretaries by not appointing secretaries. In that event elected state officers automatically become code secretaries without pay, the lieutenant governor excepted. He is to be paid $2,500 extra for having charge of the department of agriculture.

The governor is to be secretary of finance, the state treasurer secretary of trade and commerce, the land commissioner secretary of public works and the secretary of state shall be secretary of labor and the superin-

NOTHING FOR TUBERCULOSIS

KEIFER AMENDMENT DEFEATED IN COMMITTEE OF WHOLE.

Sifting Committee Created With Instructions to Proceed—Auten Resolution Put in Ash Heap.

By a vote of 43 for and 45 against, the house in committee of the whole Friday, defeated the Keifer amendment to insert in the general maintenance bill an item of $200,000 for the eradication of tuberculosis during the next biennium. This body a few days ago passed H. R. 584, tubercular bill which is useless without the appropriation. An attempt by Hughes of Sarpy to reduce the amount of $150,000 met with failure. But five democrats supported the amendment. Representative Osterman, minority floor leader, was among the five.

Representative Keifer declared that according to statistics, one third of the total number of tubercular cases developed in children under five, is traced directly to milk from tubercular cows.

"If you want a chance to save money," he said, "Here is a chance to save by spending. You can vote to abolish the great white plagues. Unless the work is continued, that which has been done is practically wasted."

The house supported Representative Neff by a vote of 39 to 38 in his move to life H. R. 585, movie tax bill, from the dead. The measure goes on general file. It provides a five per cent tax on all amusement tickets, religious and charitable shows omitted, where the charge is a dime or more. It provides that the money so derived shall go to the aid of schools, particularly to weak districts. Mr. Neff said that it had been rumored that if the bill passes both branches the governor will veto it.

"I don't know why they say I will veto it," he quoted the governor as saying.

Representative Auten's resolution demanding that the university regents investigate the past record of Dr. Condra was erased from the records. Mr. Garber declared that it contains misstatements of fact and is a reflection on the university investigating committee.

Densmore moved that all documents in the hands of members of the investigating committee be turned over to the chief clerk. Yochum of Otoe opposed, but after the motion had carried, admitted that the clerk had been possessed of the records for several days.

The speaker announced the following sifting committee personnel:

First district—Representative Parkinson, republican Pawnee, Representative Harrington republican, Lancaster.

Second district — Representative George Dyball republican of Douglas and Representative Elsasser, democrat, of Douglas.

Third district—Representative Stibal of Colfax, republican, Representative Brown of Stanton, democrat.

Fourth district—Representative Bailey of Thayer, republican, Representative Yocum of Saunders, democrat.

Fifth district—Representative Peterson of Kearney, republican, Representative Rourke of Hall, democrat.

Sixth district — Representative Reynolds of Lincoln, republican. Representative O'Malley of Greeley, democrat.

The speaker is member at large. An attempt to keep the sifters away from the food on general file until Monday, failed. The committee is now the sole possessor. The house will take what the sifters give. The political personnel is including the speaker, eight-thirteenths republican.

FIGHT SALINGER'S EFFORTS

U. S. District Attorney to Go to New Orleans to Combat Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., April 6—United States District Attorney S. W. Clark of South Dakota has been ordered to proceed at once to New Orleans, La., to combat efforts of Ben I. Salinger, jr., to obtain a writ of habeas corpus in Louisiana before a federal judge there. Mr. Clark departed at once for the south.

Meanwhile, word was received that the hearing in New Orleans for the Midland Packing company promotor had been postponed. He is wanted for using the mails to defraud in connection with the defunct plant in Sioux City.

Later this morning word was received that Salinger's case will be tried in New Orleans today.

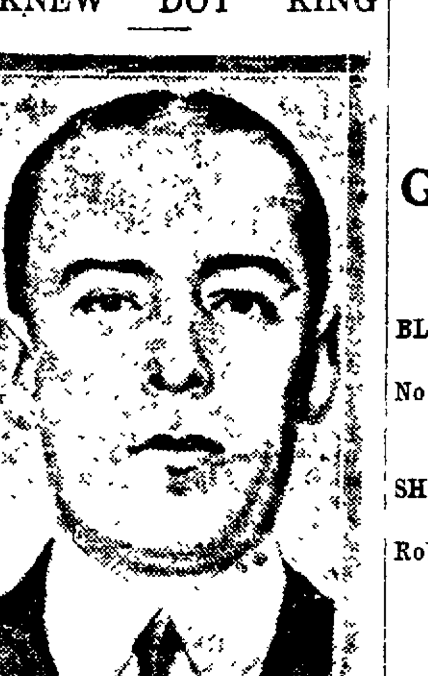

SHOULD DRINK MORE MILK.

WASHINGTON, April 6 — That country children are more prone to malnutrition than city children is indicated by investigations conducted in connection with the milk campaigns run in more than half of the states of the union under the auspices of the United States department of agriculture. Miss Jessie M. Hoover milk utilization specialist of the dairy division is authority for this statement. She has been carrying on milk campaigns in behalf of the department of agriculture for five years.

Made Change in Contract.

JANSEN, Neb., April 6—In the case of the Home Investment company of Kansas City vs. R. Rohnke, the Jansen merchant to recover on notes to the amount of $4[illegible] given for phonographs, the jury found against the Kansas City company. Mr. Rohnke resisted payment on account of a charge in the contract after both parties had signed.

DAUGHERTY, SON OF ATTORNEY GENERAL, KNEW "DOT" KING

Indications grow that plotters intended to use Dorothy King or Keenan, New York model, chloroformed in her New York apartment in connection with their schemes to blackmail men of prominence and wealth. Following the mention of his name in a newspaper story published in New York, Maj. Drayton M. Daugherty, son of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, said that he knew "Dot" King, but that he was only a casual acquaintance. He said that following her death he had two telephone calls from a man who intimated that he would try to link his name with that of the King girl unless Daugherty obtained a position for him in the department of justice.

MOB STORMS RED LEGATION

TEN THOUSAND POLES PROTEST CHURCHMAN'S DEATH.

Apprehension Felt Over Fate of Patriarch Tikhon Who Will Be Tried April 11 for Resistance to Soviet.

LONDON, April 6—A mobe of more than 10,000 Poles attempted to storm the Russian legation at Warsaw today in a demonstration of protest against the execution of Catholic Prelate Budkevich, according to this afternoon's Evening News.

Polish mounted police broke up the attack.

Indignation over the execution of Vicar General Budkevich now is mingled with apprehension over the probable fate of the Most Rev. Dr Tikhon, former patriarch of all Russia, who will be tried April 11 for resistance to the soviet system.

Russia has informed Great Britain that it is impossible to revise an original soviet reply to this country's protest against execution of the Catholic dignitaries.

Hope is expressed that England will "refrain from interference with Russia's internal affairs."

Pope Pius is understood to have abandoned the idea of protesting against the recent execution of Mgr. Budkevich.

Patriarch Tikhon, formerly an American and Canadian bishop, will be put on trial next Wednesday on charges of high treason in connection with alleged counter revolutionary activities. With him will be tried Vicar General Gouriev and Bishop Arseniev, both of Moscow.

Prosecutor Krylenko charges Tikhon kept in constant contact with the foreign clergy in occupied territory and made public sermons in which he was quoted as stating that "Christ loved the armies fighting the bolsheviki."

POSTOFFICE SAFE BLOWN

Robbers Who Secured $2,500 at Warsaw, Ind., Believed to Be Gang Which Worked Elsewhere.

WARSAW, Ind., April 6—Robbers blew open the safe of the Warsaw postoffice, a block from the police station early today and secured $2,500. Police believe the bandits are the same gang that recently robbed the Columbus, Bedford and other postoffices recently.

TRIED TO OVERTAX TOURISTS.

BERLIN, (By Mail). The American colony in Berlin has gone on strike against the high price wave dominating Berlin business—especially the big downtown hotels. The Adlon hotel, long the center of American activities in Berlin is being rapidly emptied of American guests who have lived there for years. The price of rooms coupled with the 80 per cent lodging tax levied against all foreigners has started the colony to looking for new quarters.

EFFORT TO FIND HER SON

Mrs. C. M. Stanton, 6106 [illegible] street, Detroit, Mich., has written the publisher of the Journal in an effort to locate her son, Bill Stanton, eighteen years old. She says he is in the west somewhere and that she has not heard from him since last July.

PAIR FOUND SLAIN ON STATEN ISLAND

Girls Discovered By Milk Man, With Stabs In Back and Throats Slashed.

BLOODY KNIFE IS NEARBY

No Signs of a Struggle and No Bloodstains.

SHORT BLADE WAS USED

Robbery Believed Motive Since No Money Was Found on Either Body—One Had a Cork Leg.

NEW YORK, April 6—The murdered bodies of Mrs. Irene Blandino of Jersey City and Bessie McMahon, believed to be from Utica, N. Y., their throats cut and with numerous stab wounds, were found early today beside a lonely road on tSaten Island, and police have thrown out a dragnet for blackhanders believed to have killed the girls from motives of revenge.

According to the police belief, the girls were murdered elsewhere and taken to Staten Island in an automobile. They had struggled and their faces were distorted with fear.

A blackhand band to which Mrs. Blandino's first husband, Frank Bongiovani, is alleged to have belonged, and which finally slew him, is thought to have extended its vengeance to the girl found today, and to her companion to prevent the criminals becoming known.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Stabbed in the back and with throats cut, the bodies of two young women were found lying beside a lonely road near the village of Dongan Hills, Staten Island, at 6:30 a. m. today.

Thirty feet from the road a bloody knife was discovered.

A receipted bill found in the pocket of one of the girls bore the name of Mrs. Irene Blandino, Jersey City. This girl had auburn hair and an artificial leg.

Her companion, who was a blonde, had one wrist slashed in addition to her other wounds.

Walter J. Donevan of the Castelton Dairy, who found the bodies, told police there were no signs of a struggle and no bloodstains at the spot. It is a lonely place with a few houses and no sidewalks. The open lots are covered with a dense brush and there is a creek nearby which is occasionally used as a landing place by bootleggers.

Examination of the bodies by police surgeons showed there were a number of stab wounds in the throat of each woman. They had evidently been inflicted with a short bladed knife.

The medical examiner said he believed death occurred four or five hours before the tragedy was discovered. This would put the time of the crime at 1 or 2 a. m.

Each body was clad in a fur coat. No money was found on either girl and it is believed they were robbed.

Capt. E. L. Von Wagener went to work on the case with twenty detectives. There are no bridges connecting Staten Island with the main land and all the ferry lines were watched. Police believe the murderers are still on the island.

Police of Jersey City are inclined to the theory of revenge as the motive for the murder.

Before her marriage to Blandino, Mrs. Blandino was the widow of Frank Bongiovani of Jersey City, police said. Bongiovani was suspected of being a blackhand leader and was arrested in January last year in connection with the murder of two men, but was subsequently released. Gangsters attacked him shortly after his release and Bongiovani died from the wounds.

Police believe that gangsters implicated in the man's killing are involved in the double murder today and that Mrs. Blandino was slain for added revenge and her companion killed to prevent her from giving information that would lead to the arrest of the slayers.

The gangsters probably were Jersey City men, the police said.

Blandino, when questioned by police, said he was in a saloon all night, and his story was corroborated by a brother-in-law.

TO ENTERTAIN AN EDITOR

Samuel Horace Dunn of "The Railway Age" to Be Guest of Kiwanis Club Next Week.

Samuel Horace Dunn, for the past fifteen years editor of "The Railway Age" is to be the guest and speaker at next week's meeting of Kiwanis. It was announced Friday at the regular luncheon. In order to give other men a chance to hear Mr. Dunn, the club will invite the Rotary, Lions and Pathfinder clubs to attend the luncheon, and it will be held at the Lincoln hotel instead of at the chamber of commerce.

George W. Davis, manufacturer of store fronts, was the speaker Friday. He said Lincoln was the home of the modern store front, the first one having been manufactured here in 1906, and told how some of the western manufacturer's troubles could be overcome if he really had the goods to sell.

W. E. Selleck explained the organization of the Community chest and the campaign to be staged the last of this month, and said that while it was not likely the concerted drive would save any subscriber many dollars, it would save him much time and trouble. The cost of the campaign, moreover, is figured at between 3 and 4 per cent of money raised, whereas in separate campaigns hitherto it has ranged as high as 15 per cent.

W. J. Vaught sang a group of songs.

SAYS BRYAN MISINFORMED

RAILWAY COMMISSION HAS FULL CONTROL OF RATES IN STATE.

Has Issued More Than 200 Reduction Orders in Last Two Years That Cut Rail Rates Over Million.

The state railway commission Friday issued the following statement in reply to Governor Bryan's recent broadside:

The statement that the Nebraska commission has been shorn of its powers over railroad rates is erroneous as could be readily ascertained by anyone in a brief time. It is bottomed on a war-time condition that has long since disappeared. The interstate commerce commission has made no rates in Nebraska for more than two years, while the state commission has [illegible] two hundred orders involving reductions in state railway rates over a million. In very few instances in that time have increases, however slight, been approved. No good can come to shippers of the state by urging a further extension of federal rate-making powers in the state. The fact is so well recognized that state commissions are becoming increasingly active in determination of interstate transportation matters. The proof is ample to anyone who desires to inquire.

Railroad service matters are only second in importance to the level of the rates. They have always taken as much time of the commission as have rates. The public can have no place to appeal in these matters except to the commission or to the legislature. In a very large proportion of the towns and communities there is, and can be, no competition in railroad rates and service, and there must be regulation.

Perhaps the public would be better off if prices of everything were back to pre-war levels. The same factors that prevent the immediate return in private business under the most free competition have prevented a more rapid readjustment of rates by the commission.

No doubt the commission could have, by use of the very great power of the state, bankrupted most of the 200 independent telephone companies of the state. The large corporations know fully their constitutional rights and can defend them; the smaller ones have not the capacity to fight no matter how severe the commission might be. The commission has no apologies to make for treating all equitably who must rely on this body for permission to do that which both constitution and law give them the ultimate right to do. Even so economic conditions are such that a large number of telephone companies of the state are earning nothing on their investments.

Unorganized shippers have no other place to seek relief than the commission which handles both state and interstate matters without cost to complainants. That is the intent of the law. It cannot be done without resources.

The legislature has repealed none of the laws which the commission has to enforce, nor has it restricted the duties. The proposal to strike down

DECLARED STATE OF WAR WITH GERMANY SIX YEARS AGO.

Owsley, National Commander of the American Legion, Calls on People to Reconsecrate Themselves to Ideals.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 6.—The American people are called upon to reconsecrate themselves to the fulfillment of the purposes for which America entered the world war in a statement by Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion issued today, the anniversary of this country's declaration of war.

"Let us prove our regard for the dead, broken and maimed by combating these forces which today threaten to undermine the principle of our society and government," Owsley said.

By Alvin Owsley.

Six years ago today America dared to declare that a state of war existed between our nation and the most powerful military government the world has ever known.

Aroused to a solemn realization that the principles of democracy and fair dealing among the civilized nations of the world were about to be overthrown by the overt actions of men maddened with lust for power and conquest, our peoples took up the fight for the preservation of our national integrity.

Against the crusade enthusiasm of the American fighter the powerful German military machine could never prevail. The citizens of a great democracy triumphed over the followers of an autocratic monarchy.

The crest of America's efforts was great. Lives were blotted out by the thousands; maimed and disfigured for life, thousands of the country's defenders returned to their homes to struggle for existence in competition with those untouched by the horrors of battle.

The memory of the dead and the suffering and sacrifice of the living will never be forgotten by the patriotic citizens of America. In support of the American Legion, whose members are the comrades of those who fell in the fight, the people of the United States are preparing to raise a sum of money to provide for the permanent annual decoration of graves of our war dead in Europe on each memorial day. In every community on May 20, they will wear the French poppy, hallowed by its war associations, in memory of our immortal dead.

Let us reconsecrate ourselves to the fulfillment of those purposes for which we entered the world struggle six years ago today. Let us prove our regard for the dead, broken and maimed by combating those forces which today threaten to undermine the principles of our society and government. Our service in peace, as in war, is necessary for the preservation of the fine ideals of Americanism which have made our nation great.

For God and country, for our glorious flag, let us reestablish in the United States of America the spirit of April 6, 1917.

DISCUSSION OF CONSCIOUSNESS

Professor Gregg Tells of Philosophy to Phi Beta Kappa Student.

"The nature and implications of the attitudinal theory of consciousness" was the subject of an address by Prof. F. M. Gregg before the Nebraska Wesleyan chapter of the scholarship society of Phi Kappa Phi. The speaker said in brief:

This ground is familiar to philosophers. The problem is one of the composition and nature of consciousness. Plato held that mental concepts were realities. The idea of a tree is a reality seeing the tree awakens the notion or concept idea. Aristotle believed that inside the tree was a general notion of the tree. The nominalists believed that the universal idea came after the thing. This was also true of the conceptualists who are represented by Abelard. The relationalists place the universal among or between things.

"Certain attitudes arise from the idea of an object. This thought is held by the attitudinalists. State of consciousness is controlled by experience. Strangeness is present when we see an object for the first time. Consciousness rests on bodily adjustments. The book suggests the holding, opening, turning of the head and reading of the book. Formal history has no place in the public schools, neither does physiology. Teach boys and girls the ten commandments? Not, at least, formally. Teach religion? Yes. You must teach by experience. Pretty much all of our education has been backwards."

FOREST FIRE CHOKED FISH.

BOISE, Id., April 6.—Thousands of fish in Idaho were recently found choked to death by a forest fire, as the charred wood washed into the streams lodged in their gills.

Leon Trotzky, the bolshevik minister of war, wrote an article for the Pravda, advocating a strict campaign against bureaucracy.

RICHES FAILING, SEEKS DIVORCE

OAK PARK, Ill.—Love in a cottage is old stuff and it takes money in these modern days to make the path of true love run smooth.

Ruth Jane Brown said she liked Keslie W. Howe, handsome salesman, immensely and was glad to marry him when he painted pictures of a future which would give her riches.

But after the marriage, she said, it developed Keslie earned but $20 a week. Then she had the marriage annulled.

SAYS STORY IS GROTESQUE

HARDING CHARACTERIZES LONDON REPORT AS ABSURD.

Tale Went Campaign for Reelection Would Be Based on Platform of Further Mingling in World Affairs.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6. — "Grotesque absurdity," was the characterization today by spokesmen for President Harding of a story printed in London that Mr. Harding's campaign for re election would be based on a platform of further participation in European affairs than is contemplated in joining the internaitonal court of justice.

According to the London story, the president would sponsor a new treaty, based on a program by Lord Cecil, foremost British protagonist of the league of nations. This treaty, it was said, would supplant the league and provide for America's entrance into European acairs.

Two days remain of the president's vacation. A banquet will be tendered him Friday night. He is expected to deliver a brief address, during which he may touch on some national problems.

RAILWAY NOTES.

The Burlington will build a new passenger station at Weston, Mo., a new seven-stall addition to the Aurora, Ill., roundhouse, and a five-stall addition to the roundhouse at Eola, Ill.

The Northwestern will build a four-story office building in Chicago to cost $150,000.

The Rock Island will build an eight-stall roundhouse at Haleyville, Okla., fuel pumping stations in Arkansas at Little Rock, Boonville, Ola and Mcsa, and second track between Paxico and Volland, Kas., and between Herington and Latimer, in the same state.

RECOVER STOLEN AUTOS.

NEWARK, N. J., April 6.—Since the New Jersey state police were established fourteen months ago, approximately $140,000 worth of stolen automobiles has been recovered in the state.

CHARGES SALOONS UNDER PROTECTION

Secretary of Illinois Anti-Saloon League Says Men in Uniform Patronize the Drinking Parlors.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Charges that saloons running "wide open" in Chicago are patronized by uniformed men from the police department were made today by Dr. Elmer E. Williams, field secretary of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league.

Speaking before 200 league members last night, Williams declared that trucks from fourteen breweries, guarded by armed men, make daily deliveries of beer to saloons.

"At one saloon a flivver squad from the police department drives up every morning to get the day's supply of liquor," he asserted. "A police officer wearing gold braid was carried out of the place recently, too intoxicated to walk."

E. J. Davis, Chicago superintendent said a new enforcement campaign was under way by the league.

HUNGARY ASKS TREASURES.

VIENNA (By Mail).—Art circles as well as government circles are again perturbed by reports emanating from Budapest to the effect that the Hungarian government intends to apply to the allied commission for an allotment of the art treasures of the Austro-Hungarian empire that have for centuries been stored in museums here.

Thin? Run-down? Sure Way to Get Right Weight

Increase Your Red-Blood-Cells. That's the Sure Way! S. S. S. Builds Blood-Cells; This Means Strength!

Do you know why insurance companies refuse to insure a great many men because they are under weight? Simply because to be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red cells in your blood, minus health, minus energy, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood cells you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Hollow cheeks fill out. You stop being a calamity looker. You inspire confidence. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the sag lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood cells! S. S. S. will build them. Ladies and gentlemen, a pasty, bony face doesn't make you look very important or pretty, does it? Take S. S. S. It contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again

"Shuffle Along," a Musical Comedy Sensation, Coming to the Orpheum

"Shuffle Along," a musical melange written, produced and presented entirely by colored talent and which enjoyed so long a run in New York, will come to the Orpheum theater two days Tuesday, Wednesday and Wednesday matinee, April 10 and 11. It is a typical colored performance and in a class with the king of shows the late Bert Williams and George Walker used to lead before the former became a footlight fixture in New York. The dances are snappy, the music tuneful and syncopated and the singing is of a high order. The song numbers are given fast and furious by a dazzling, dashing and dancing "bronze" chorus.

DEMOCRATS OF STRANGE TURN

OPPOSE SALARIES TO GOVERNOR AND OTHER OFFICERS.

Carry Antagonism to Majority to Extreme Point—Maximum Rate Bill for Utilities Over the Last Hurdle.

A majority of the house democrats, exactly twenty-three of them, carried their antagonism to the house majority to an extreme point Friday morning when they voted against the salary appropriation bill This measure carries only such items as are fixed by constitution and by law. Defeat of the bill would mean that the governor, the secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, superintendent, land commissioner, members of the railway commission, seven supreme court judges and thirty-four court reporters would receive no pay for the next biennium.

Some of them pounced upon a little amendment as excuse for opposition. This amendment inserts an item of $5,000 a year for the tax commissioner —another constitutional item Several of the democrats saw the error of their stand and changed from the negative to the affirmative but the following twenty-three were still on the opposing side of the fence when the roll was finally checked:

Auten, Axtell, Ball, Brown, G B. Collins, G. S. Collins, Ernst, Gordon, Hyde, Jacoby, Keck, Moore, Morgan, O'Gara, O'Malley, Orr, Osterman, Quinn, Raasch, Regan, Rourke, Thomssen, Yochum of Otoe, Yochum of Saunders.

By a vote of 58 to 23, the house passed the Osterman bill providing that maximum rates and maximum rates only shall be fixed by rate making bodies in connection with public utilities. Rates now fixed by the railway commission are both maximum and minimum. Members of the commission have stated that this casure neither adds to nor takes from their powers altho, they contend, it may lead to confusion. The commission has never refused a request to lower rates when the request comes from the utility nor does the commission attempt to pass upon the public necessity of two or more like utilities in a field.

The house voiced approval of life imprisonment for those convicted of arson under certain conditions as provided in H. R. 664, by Representative Hefferman. The condition is that sentence shall be provided when the building fired shall, at the time, be occupied by some person or persons. The vote was 63 to 22. Other bills to pass third reading Friday:

H. R. 482, by Keck—Provides for delivery of absent voters ballots fifteen days prior to each election and certificates to county clerks twenty days before any November election. The vote 82 to 0.

H. R. 614 by Burke and Mears—When an amount of money which a county treasurer desires to deposit in banks within the county exceeds 50 per cent of the paid capital and surplus in all banks of the county, he may, with consent of the county board, deposit an excess not exceeding the capital and surplus in any one bank. Requires bond for such excess deposit. The vote 82 to 2.

Senate amendments to H. R. 125, by Ward—an act disqualifying judges from hearing cases when related to parties at suit or to lawyers trying case. The vote 87 to 2.

Senate amendments to H R 163, by Osterman and others—Recovery of damages by employe from railroad company shall not impair right of such employe to insurance, relief benefit or industry provided in his contract. The vote 86 to 1.

BANDIT ESCAPES AGAIN

Gerald Chapman, "Million Dollar Robber" Found in Basement of Hospital, Missing Once More.

ATHENS, Ga., April 6.—Gerald Chapman, "million dollar mail bandit" of New York city, escaped today from federal officials for the third time within a month, after being discovered in a hospital basement.

A nurse, Miss Estelle Scott, first found the fugitive. She fainted when Harry Bishop, a guard from the Atlanta penitentiary arrived.

When Bishop carried Miss Scott to another room to be revived, Chapman again disappeared.

When Miss Scott went into the basement, this morning, she found Chapman seated in a chair.

The nurse spoke to him and the convict replied in a weak voice. She assisted him to the top of a stairs and summoned Bishop.

When the guard arrived, the nurse became hysterical and begged Bishop to keep Chapman from "getting" her Chapman was wounded Wednesday when he was captured following a sensational break from the Atlanta federal prison. He disappeared from the hospital Wednesday night. Posses had searched the surrounding country for him. Bloodhounds which picked up the trail near the hospital followed it only a short distance.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

CANNOT TELL CAPITOL COST

ARCHITECT AND EX-GOVERNOR SAY IT ALL DEPENDS.

Investigators Curious and Want to Know What People Will Eventually Pay for New State House.

Members of the legislative investigating committee grew curious Thursday afternoon with respect to how much the new capitol is eventually going to cost. The architect declined to make any guess, and former Governor McKelvie said "only the Good Lord knows."

Mr. Goodhue said it is impossible for architects to make a careful calculation in advance where they do not have control of the conditions. He would not estimate what the total cost of the Nebraska structure would be. He said this will be governed by too many conditions, the cost of material and labor in the future, when the contracts for the second section and the tower are let. He had five millions in mind when he drew the original plans.

The first plans called for 7,453,000 cubic feet of contents of building. The commission had later increased this to over 9 millions. At the time the contract for the plans was signed the average cost per cubic foot was $1.00. When this had dropped a year ago to 60 cents, the commission hurried up and let the first two contracts. They were wise because prices have since gone up 20 per cent. It costs two and a half times as much to build now as before the war.

The testimony brought out that the total contracts to date cover $2,536,000, and if to this is added the proportionate fee of the architect and all other costs the total cost of the basement and first floor will be $2,800,053. This represents 40 per cent of the entire constructions.

On this basis the capitol, it was figured, would run up to $7,000,000, not counting the architect's fee of around $300,000 and the cost of furnishings, decorations and fittings. Governor McKelvie pointed out, however, that the total given for contracted expenditures to date included a number of items that will not be incurred again, and if these be deducted, the architect said the cost would be between five and a half and six millions. If prices recede, as some authorities say will happen next year, the cost will be less; if they keep rising it will be more.

If the total is too high, said Mr. Goodhue, the commission can direct him to cut his design or the commission can cut the requirements. So far the requirements upon him have been increased. He said contractors laugh at the cubic foot method of computing costs, and he said that it was crude but gave something of an approximation.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Euterpe dancing club entertained at a spring dinner dance Thursday evening at the Lincoln hotel. Thirty-six couples were present, seated at small tables around the ball room. A color motif of pink and lavender was followed in the decorations and in the favors. A tall pink taper in a crystal holder and tied with lavender tulle formed the centerpiece for each table and smaller candles were at each plate. Pink horns for the ladies and cigars for the men were on the table and were given as favors. The ladies also received corsages of pink and lavender sweet peas and in one of the favor dances they were given small telephones filled with candy. In another dance boxes of candy were given. Ferns and a large basket of spring flowers formed the decoration on the platform and the floor lamps were shaded with pink fringed shades and tied with a large lavender bow. John Jobst was a guest of the club. Mrs. J. M. Clarke and Mrs. S. S. Seeley were in charge of the arrangements for the party which was the last one of the season. The officers of the club for the coming year include: J. D. Lau, president; Don Wachter, treasurer, and Mrs. C. E. Fritzlen and Mrs. C. A. Reynolds, secretaries.

The Junior League Revue which will be given Friday and Saturday evening at the Orpheum theater will be broadcast from the theater over the radio by the General Electric company. The different Junior League organizations over the country have been asked to listen in and will have a chance to hear the music and singing from the performance. The final dress rehearsal for the Revue was held Thursday evening at the Orpheum. A large number of people from Omaha will come to attend the performance and will be guests of Lincoln people at the supper dances which will follow at the old country club. Mr. and Mrs. S. R. McKelvie will have as their guests Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Walter Head of Omaha and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Faulkner will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Yale Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Burgess and Mr. and Mrs. George DeLacy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest P. Thompson have returned from Los Angeles where they spent the winter. They went to Adams Thursday and expect soon to go to Minneapolis their former home.

Earl M. Marvin, editor of the Beatrice Sun, stopped in Lincoln Thursday night on his way home from Omaha.

INQUEST OVER JOHN C. KEAR

Coroner's Jury Decides He Came to His Death by Being Run Over by Coal Car.

John C. Kear, weighmaster for the Schuler Coal company, "met his death by being run over by a coal car in the Schuler coal yard about 8:15 a. m., April 4, 1923—cause of accident unknown," according to a verdict of a coroner's jury returned following an inquest held Thursday evening at Troyer's chapel by Assistant County Attorney L. R. Doyle.

Mr. Kear was accidentally killed Wednesday morning, and his family asked the county attorney to hold an inquest to determine officially the cause of his death. Seven witnesses, including the train crew and two of the Schuler coal company's haulers, testified. None of them saw the accident. The jurors were:

E. E. Northrupp
W. Edgar Gates
O. C. Weesner
John Higgins
Charles L. Hobbs
Malcolm Baldridge

Witnesses were:

John Gettman, switchman, 1020 South Eighth street.
L. L. Burnett, switchman, 2625 J street.
G. E. Rolfsmeyer, engineer, 1205 South Tenth street.
R. L. Young, fireman, 221 South Fifteenth street.
A. Bloom, switchman, 112 West F street.
Paul Holltorf, coal hauler, 2220 North Eleventh street.
Henry Spahn, coal hauler, 1340 Furnas.

Mr. Gettman was the first person to see Mr. Kear after the accident. He testified that he had just asked Mr. Kear about where to place a car; had given the engineer the signal to move the train, and had swung upon the moving car when he felt a bump. Looking back, he saw a body on the track. He imagined the train had run over a tramp, and after giving the signal to stop, ran looking for Mr. Kear. Then it was discovered that the unconscious person lying on the track, with both legs almost severed, was the weighmaster.

He said the engineer could not have seen Mr. Kear by looking backward, on account of a curve in the track, and on account of a building which obstructed the view. He observed that a large lump of coal was lying on the track, and had been dragged a short distance by the coal car's truck.

It was this lump of coal which Deputy Sheriff Longstreth surmised Mr. Kear might have been trying to remove from the track when caught by the car.

Switchman Burnett also testified that he saw this lump of coal. George Rolfsmeyer, the engineer, testified that he had known Mr. Kear ten years. He said that about twenty-five seconds elapsed between the time he was given the signal to start the car and the time he was signalled to stop after Mr. Kear had been struck. The engine went at about four miles an hour, he believed. Testimony of other witnesses tended to corroborate the testimony already given. All who knew Mr. Kear testified that he had been a careful and prudent man, never careless about the cars. No one saw the car strike Mr. Kear. No one was known who had any malice toward Mr. Kear the witnesses said.

KICKS OVER HOUSE CODE

SENATE VOTES TO KILL THE DYSART-MATHERS BILLS.

Recommends Optional Appointment of Civilians by Governor or Fixed Division Among State Officers.

The Dysart-Mathers bills amending the code bill by regrouping the activities into four instead of six departments, conferring power upon four state officers to take charge and to appoint and discharge employes, bills over which the house spent much time and many earsful of oratory, are to be tossed overboard if the senate committee on miscellaneous subjects has its way.

Chairman Hastings of Grant of this committee holds directions in his possession giving him full power to arise in the senate Friday morning and boldly recommend that the Dysart-Mathers bills be indefinitely postponed. This committee comprises Hastings, Saunders, Reed, Cooper, Robbins, Warner, Wilkins, Purcell and Reifenrath.

The chairman will also recommend that in place of the two for the discard S. F. 2, by Reed and S. F. 315, by Hastings, be placed upon general file for consideration.

The senate committee proposes to report adversely to the two key bills of the Dysart-Mathers drafting, H. R. 537 and H. R. 538. As amended these bills designate the secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and land commissioner as heads of the four proposed code departments. If the governor does not like the way these men do their duty he can remove them and put others in their places. The four state officers being constitutional officers will have power to appoint their own employes. The secretary of state who is a democrat, is to have charge of the labor commissioner's work, the present department of agriculture and the present department of welfare, minus a few activities to be lopped off. The Dysart-Mathers bills further make the state auditor head of the department of finance, the treasurer head of the department of trade and commerce and the state land commissioner head of the department of public works.

The senate committee modestly proposes to substitute for these bills S. F. 2, which is to be amended by giving the governor power to name either elected executive state officers or private citizens secretaries of the present six code departments, but if the governor does not appoint civilians for secretaries, then in that case the governor himself shall be secretary of the finance department, the lieutenant governor shall be secretary of the department of agriculture, the secretary of state shall be secretary of trade and commerce and the land commission secretary of public works. No extra pay is to be given any of these except the lieutenant governor who is to get $2,500 for his trouble if it is constitutional to give him two salaries.

S. F. 315 amends the present code law so that secretaries of departments and not the governor shall appoint and discharge their employes, and the house and senate, not the senate alone, shall confirm code secretaries appointed by the governor.

The senate committee on revenue discussed the attorney general's opinions on validation of banks' taxes for the year 1922 and while two members, Thielen and Hastings, believe validation is hardly possible by act of the legislature, all are willing to vote for the governor's validating bill S. F. 330, which is now on third reading, and possibly put the question up to the supreme court in a suit as suggested by Chairman Anderson who took the position that if there is any show of validation the legislature will be derelict if it does not make the attempt.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Advertisement.

NOT TRACKING THE GOVERNOR

HOUSE DECLINES TO PUT BAN ON MILEAGE BOOKS.

Declines to Appropriate for Cell House at Penitentiary Near End of Maintenance Bill.

Sixteen democrats and forty-three republicans refused in house committee of the whole Thursday afternoon to follow in the footsteps of Governor Bryan in his anti-mileage book program. These same sixteen democrats and forty-three republicans declined also to vote more power to the governor by giving him authority to pass on the necessity of every trip taken by a state official beyond the boundaries of the state.

Representative Orr, old-line democrat, proposed a tail-end section to the general maintenance bill providing that no funds herein appropriated shall be used for purchase of railroad mileage books and no expenditures for traveling expenses outside the state shall be made without the approval of the governor.

"Possibly the mover does not know" said J. Reid Green, "that under a ruling effective late in May, mileage will be 20 per cent less thru purchase of mileage books than by paying the regular fare."

The finance committee ignored the governor's mileage book scheme. Representative Keifer, member of that committee, said:

"The governor issued an order that no more mileage books shall be bought. We have other executive state officers besides the governor. I have confidence in these men."

Chairman Mears of the finance group said that such a provision would mean that before members of the railway commission can attend a hearing of the interstate commerce commission, they must get permission of the governor.

Because of objections raised by Representative Morgan of York, H. R. 424 stepped up to the barrier and then skidded back to committee for specific amendment. The bill provides for transfer of women now confined at the penitentiary to state reformatory for women at York and for the sentencing of females, convicted of felony, by the trial court to the reformatory.

The member from York offers the specific amendment to strike out that portion of the present law which provides for committment to the reformatory of females convicted by magistrates of misdemeanors such as petit larceny, vagrancy, habitual drunkenness or of being a prostitute. Representative Hardin joined Representative Morgan in his objections. The member from Harlan declared that it is not right to send women convicted of murder to York to mix with women sentenced for misdemeanors. Attention was called to the fact that no provision is made for segregation.

Should the amendment be attached, it would mean that the reformatory shall cease to be a reformatory and that women convicted of misdemeanors shall be committed to city and county jails, already overcrowded.

In the face of a warning that something bordering on scandal may come if the state longer neglects to provide adequate housing facilities for its prisoners, the house voted down the Gallagher amendment to appropriate $40,000 for a cell house at the penitentiary. Representative Wilson of Lancaster made a strong appeal in favor of the proposed addition.

He said that if the legislature adjourns without providing more room for these prisoners, members will pave the way for something besides economy.

BEATRICE BUYS ELECTRICITY

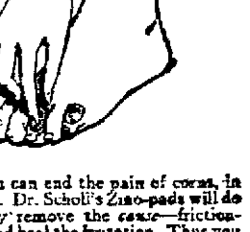

Enters Contract With Black Bros. Company for Blue Springs Plant Product.

BEATRICE, Neb., April 5.—The city of Beatrice entered into a contract Thursday with the Black Bros. Mill company for current from an electric plant being constructed at Blue Springs. The company is to receive two and a half cents per kilowatt and will construct the transmission line, delivering the current to the city power house. The city has been generating its own current for street lighting, and the additional amount will permit it to engage in commercial lighting, if desired. Bonds for a municipal plant were defeated about a year ago. The contract entered into Thursday is for a period of fifteen years.

CARTER MAY QUIT LABOR

ADMITS LUXOR EXCAVATIONS BROUGHT BAD LUCK.

Son of Carnarvon Wants to Wash Hands of Affair—New York Museum May Be Invited to Continue Search.

LONDON, April 6.—Americans may be invited to take over from the family of Lord Carnarvon the task of removing from his newly discovered tomb the mummified figure of that ancient pharaoh—Tut-Ankh-Amen.

Lord Porchester, son and heir of the explorer who died yesterday after a lingering illness which awed the superstitious world with its suggestion of a mysterious vengeance against him who violated the tomb, wishes to wash his hands of the whole affair.

Howard Carter, co-discoverer with Lord Carnarvon of the catafalque that lay hidden for thirty centuries in the cliffs of the valley of the kings, may go on. But he said recently to his friends.

"This tomb has brought us bad luck."

Unless Carter is determined to continue with the work that was expected to be culminated next winter in removal from the sepulcher of Tut-Ankh-Amen's mummy, the Metropolitan Art Museum of New York may be invited to finance and continue the work.

The cost of excavation is considerable. Howard Carter has a contract with the Egyptian government giving him the right to explore the valley of the kings, but Lord Carnarvon was financing the expedition. Reading of the lord's will is awaited with interest as he may have left funds for the work of continuing the removal of the pharaoh.

The valley of the kings in the Luxor is blistering at present beneath summer suns that make all human life almost impossible. Work of removing the mummy cannot be continued until fall.

The entire world appears, from dispatches to London, to be debating the possibility of the curse of ancient Egypt having descended upon Carnarvon. Conan Doyle's remarkable theory that "elementals" or guardian spirits may have caused the explorer's death has started violent discussion in occult and scientific circles.

British Egyptologists generally scoff at the suggestion of evil spirits, however. Sir Ernest Budge, keeper of antiquities in the British museum, says:

"This vengeance idea is all bunk."

It is pointed out by scientists that any poison known to the Egyptians would have lost its potency in 3,500 years. This was their answer to the more scientific suggestion that those who entombed Tut-Ankh-Amen left secret poisons about to punish violators of his catafalque.

The British Egyptologists are particularly anxious that the work of finally removing the mummy shall not pass into discard, but it is largely a question of funds.

No Curse or Poison.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Dr. Charles L. Owen, assistant curator and student of Egyptology at Field museum, today joined Prof. Charles Breasted, Chicago university, who recently returned from King Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb, in declaring that neither a curse nor poison "left to guard the grave of the king" killed Lord Carnarvon.

"Poisons were not highly developed in ancient Egypt," Owen declared. "If Cleopatra, with resources of all Egypt at her command, could have used a subtle, quick poison, she would not have resorted to a snake."

Both Owen and Breasted characterized the "curse" of ancient Egyptians as "bosh." Both, however, declared that they await with considerable interest the publication of Lord Carnarvon's death certificate.

WHEAT CONDITION UNCERTAIN

Prolonged Drouth Starting Last Summer Had Bad Effect on Winter Grain.

The winter wheat condition in Nebraska is yet uncertain according to the returns from a special grain list received by the division of crop and livestock estimates and the Nebraska department of agriculture. The reports were slightly more favorable than those received a month ago. Many indicate damage by the low temperature last month. About forty per cent of the crop did not come last autumn. Only half of the wheat which came made fair growth and more than the usual abandonment is expected, according to correspondents.

The questionable condition of winter wheat is due largely to the prolonged drouth, starting last summer. Only some of the earliest plowed fields last summer received moisture before planting as the first rain of consequence did not arrive until the middle of November in eastern Nebraska, and in the western half of the state the rain did not come until the last days of November. While the wheat on the early plowed fields is fairly good, the percentage sown on such fields is small and the balance of the seeding varied from stages of no growth to that which just reached the surface. There has been little moisture of consequence this spring except the heavy snow about the middle of March, but this did not cover the entire state, and in many cases it blew off the fields.

Many correspondents stated that some of the wheat had made a slight growth previous to the low temperatures in March and that the effects of the latter on the weak plants was more or less serious. With the unusual adverse conditions, the opinions of correspondents varied so greatly that it was difficult to arrive at a definite conclusion at this time. About the only thing that can be said is that winter wheat is in a very bad condition and the outcome is problematical. The regular April 1 report will be published within a week, being released from Washington April 9.

PURNELL FLEES STATE?

Rumors Persistent at Lansing, Mich., That House of David Leader Has Left.

LANSING, Mich., April 6.—Rumors that Benjamin J. Purnell, head of the House of David of Benton Harbor, Mich., has fled the state, were persistent here today. Quo warranto proceedings have been started against the House of David leader to show why the cult should not be disbanded.

Sheriff George Bridgeman of Berrien county, where the House of David is located, admitted here yesterday that in his attempts to serve capiases on Benjamin, in the case brought against him by Ruth Bamford Reed and Gladys Bamford Rubel, for recovery of property, he has been unable to find the cult leader.

CAESAR'S CALENDAR DISCARDED.

ROME (By Mail).—With the final adoption March 1, by Greece of the Gregorian calendar, this nice little reform which was started by Pope Gregory XIII some 341 years ago has at last become a world'wide accomplished fact. The Gregorian calendar takes the place now in every nation of the world, of the calendar gotten out by Julius Ceasar and which didn't jibe with the sun by considerable. In fact ever since 1900 those countries that were still operating on the Julius Ceasar calendar were just thirteen days behind the sun.

BOMBS EXPLODED IN KU KLUX KLAN WAR

Aimed at Advertiser in Klan Publication and Printer Who Did Work for Organization's Paper.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Bombs which were exploded outside two south side business establishments today, were the result of a "war" on the ku klux klan here, police announced.

One of the "infernal machines" was set in front of the office of M. W. Gilliand, a recent advertiser in "Dawn", a pro-klan publication. The other was hurled in front of the office of John Folson, a printer, who is was declared, formerly did printing work for "Dawn."

The office occupied by Folson until recently housed the klan publication. Police said they believed that the bombs, both made out of black powder, were intended to warn advertisers and others not to patronize the organ.

Neither of the bombs did much damage.

An employe of a rival publication to "Dawn" is being sought, the police said.

WIDOW HAD MANY JEWELS

Fortune Worth $15,000 Found on Person of Widow of Harry Edmundsen.

PASADENA, Cal., April 6.—Mrs. Ann Edmundsen, widow of Harry E. Edmundsen of Lincoln, Neb., fatally injured when shot by officers here, had jewels worth $15,000 when searched. About half the gems were found in her hat.

Mrs. Edmundsen was formerly Annie Meyer, 840 North Eleventh. She was married about a year ago in Lincoln. Captain of Detectives Anderson says that Edmundsen was the smoothest customer that has ever worked in Lincoln.

Western transcontinental roads were refused permission to reduce freight rates on vegetable oils moving from Pacific coast ports to Chicago and adjacent territory by 10 cents per 100 pounds.

DORIS SEES A QUEER LITTLE COW.

DORIS sat very quietly watching the little ant family hurrying back and forth between their hill and a nice juicy corn-stalk.

"Isn't it strange the way they carry their children around in their mouths like that!" she mused. "Dear, I wish—" but before she could get any further the grass rustled at her side, and a tall, pointed hat first appeared. Then came two black eyes, sparkling with fun, two long green arms, and with a merry chuckle, a tiny elfin stood at her elbow.

"Oh, Squeedee!" Doris cried softly. "I was just going to wish for you. See those ants? They've been carrying all their children out of their house. I just wondered if they were moving?"

"Moving pretty fast, I'll say," laughed the elfin. "And if we want to see what's going on, we'll have to get a move on us."

And the next thing Doris knew she was no larger than Mrs. Ant herself, and she could see the tiny bundle she was carrying was wiggling.

"Oh, of course!" she exclaimed. "It's her baby."

"That's all you know about it," Mrs. Ant laughed merrily. "Its a baby all right—but not an ant baby."

"Well, I suppose you're like my mama," Doris said. "When the neighbors go away they always leave their children with her."

"Not exactly," said Squeedee. "You see, Mrs. Ant has had these children in her care ever since their mother laid the eggs from which they hatched."

"Foolish, I know you're going to say," spoke up Mrs. Ant quickly. "But if you knew what a help they are to me you'd never say that. The fact is, we couldn't get along very well without them. They're young cows."

"They're Young Cows."

"Cows!" Doris exclaimed. "Well, of all things! And here I thought by the tender way you were handling them they were your babies. And you say you've had all the care of them?"

"Ever since we found the eggs out on that cornstalk over yonder," replied Mrs. Ant. "That's one thing they will have to give my hill credit for. Every fall we go out and gather in the eggs of the corn-root louse and carry them down under the ground far enough so they won't feel the cold. There we take good care of them until they hatch in the spring.

"We bring them up in March sometime and put them on the weeds in the sunlight. Then when the first juicy corn-leaves appear we transfer them to the juicy stalks. They suck the juice from the corn-stalk, and then give it to us in return for our kindness. Most all the ant-hills in these parts steal their cows from other tribes, but my house never has to do that, and I'm proud of the fact, too."

"Well," sighed Doris, when Squeedee changed her back into her own size again, "one never would know what wonderful things go on if it weren't for you and your magic. I've seen that family of ants carrying those things around for a long time, but I never dreamed of their being cows. Thanks, Squeedee, you're a dear."

But before Squeedee could answer, Doris's mother called her, and, bidding her elfin friend good-by, she ran into the house.

WORDS of WISE MEN

Passionate expressions and vehement assertions are no arguments unless it be of the weakness of the cause that is defended by them, or of the man that defends it.

TWO SIMPLE SPRING FROCKS

Buttons Forge to Front ---and Back---to Trim New Daytime Dresses

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

BUTTONS make the most attractive possible trimming for practically every kind of daytime dress. While they are seldom used on evening models, they make up for this in the quantities in which they appear on other frocks.

Whether it's a garment of the dressier type or a simple little dress that's worn in the house, add attractive buttons in the right place and your trimming problem is solved. And it matters not at all whether the buttons are merely decorative, or whether they serve two purposes, and are useful as well.

Answering the latter description are the green buttons which extend from neck to hem of this effective green chambray house dress. They are darker green, as is the binding at sleeves and hem.

The other afternoon frock is developed in mountain haze crepe de chine. A strip of embroidery in mountain haze and a still deeper pink appears on the blouse, while covered buttons which match the dress extend down either side.

This Mountain Haze Crepe de Chine Gown Is Trimmed with Covered Buttons.

YOUR HEALTH

What a Dry Cough Means and Demands for a True Cure

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

DR. COPELAND

EVERY once in a while you and I read an article somewhere about the evils of coughing in public places. These discussions relate to the annoyance to the listeners and to the danger of spreading the disease.

There are two kinds of cough—dry cough and "productive cough"—that is, a cough with expectoration. All coughs are disagreeable to those who listen and, for that matter, to the afflicted one, himself. Of course, there is ample excuse for the productive cough because there is material which must be removed.

Most of the dry coughs, or "irritant coughs," as they are called, are unnecessary. They do no good and may actually cause harm to the victim.

There are a lot of causes for dry, irritating, useless coughs. In looking up the subject to refresh my mind, I was surprised to find how many separate and distinct causes there are for coughs. One authority enumerates 12 such causes. I want to speak of some of these.

In certain forms of heart disease, the blood is not properly handled by the heart. As a result, the blood is dammed back into the lungs, causing congestion and irritation. Then there comes the impulse to cough. As you see, there is nothing needing expulsion. The trouble is purely "nervous," that is, there is stimulation of the nerves and the feeling that one must cough to get rid of the irritant.

We hear about "stomach cough"—a cough due to undigested food in the stomach or to intestinal disturbance, possibly to intestinal worms. Children sometimes wake up in the night with this variety of cough.

There will be spells of dry coughing, like croup or whooping cough. Don't be misled by what I have said about "stomach cough," because there should be found the cause for every cough. But without doubt indigestion may be a sufficient cause for the annoying symptom.

You will be surprised to know that irritation in the ear may produce coughing. When wax accumulates in the ear and there is made an attempt to remove it by syringing or by the use of instruments, a sudden and uncontrollable cough is not unusual. This is called "ear cough."

Some throats and bronchial tubes are very sensitive to the slightest irritating vapor, to dust and to smoke. When most of us would be entirely unconscious of the presence of some chemical irritant in the air, these delicate mortals go into paroxysms of coughing.

Certain diseases peculiar to women may be accompanied by an annoying dry cough. It may be included, too, among the symptoms of hysteria.

Inflammation of the brain coverings, especially at the base of the brain, may have dry cough as one of its signs.

These are some of the many causes for this irritating symptom. If you are the frequent victim of this symptom, have your doctor tell you why. The treatment will suggest itself on determining the cause.

Answers to Health Questions

R. X. Y. Q—Please tell me what causes dark circles under the eyes.

A—These circles may be due to constipation, indigestion, eyestrain or uterine trouble. A thorough examination to locate the cause will be necessary before treatment can be prescribed.

MRS. L. B. M. Q—When walking around, I become dizzy and nauseated. What would cause this condition?

A—Anemia, kidney complaint and high blood-pressure cause symptoms like those you complain of. An examination is necessary before proper treatment can be suggested.

M. A. Q—My legs itch constantly when walking or standing. The only relief I get is when I lie down. Will you kindly tell me what causes this?

A—Your symptoms are probably due to varicose veins. If you will send a self-addressed, stamped envelope, restating your question, full particulars will be given.

J. T. S. Q—Will you please tell me what to do to fill in the hollows in my cheeks?

A—Massage your face with cocoa butter and build up your general health by eating good, nourishing food, exercising regularly and being out-of-doors as much as possible. As a tonic, take cod-liver oil.

W. J. M. Q—I am a man 59 years old and am troubled with stiffness in my knees, which becomes worse after sitting. What treatment is best for this?

A—Massage the affected parts with cod-liver oil and apply heat. Keep on a very simple diet and see that your bowels move regularly.

C. P. Q—Recently I underwent an operation for appendicitis and gangrene and peritonitis set in. I am now at home and would like to know how long it will take for the wound to heal and whether the inside of it heals before the outside.

A—It is impossible to say just how long it will take for the wound to heal up entirely. The inside heals first. As the condition of the wound improves, your health will likewise improve.

"BONY NECK." Q—Will you kindly tell me which is best to use for a thin neck, cocoanut oil or cocoa butter?

A—Cocoa butter is best to massage the neck with.

How to Make Your Hipline More Slender and Beautiful

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

MANY women learn, when they go in for beauty-giving exercises seriously, that any part of the body seems easier to reduce than the hips.

They exercise and exercise, and they may be gratified to see their skirt bands getting looser if they have been conscientious about it, but the hips still refuse to shrink.

Of course, the reason is that we exercise this part of our bodies less than any other part. The hips and abdomen are difficult to reduce because we bring these muscles into play so seldom that these muscles become practically inactive. They simply don't move, and then of course, they don't become firmer or allow the hips to become slimmer.

That's why women who watch their lines carefully and who take a fair amount of exercise are often more surprised than pleased to find their hips growing in width.

This growth is gradual, just as reduction is gradual and often very tiring. So don't neglect to measure your hips occasionally, and determine whether they are keeping down to the proper measurements which you have set for them.

If your proportions are perfect, your hip measurement should be the same as your bust measurement. Don't feel too disappointed, however, if they measure a trifle more, for few women have lines of so nearly classic beauty.

I'm going to give you a hip exercise which will undoubtedly help you if you do it with absolute regularity and conscientiousness. Without these two qualifications exercises are likely to be futile.

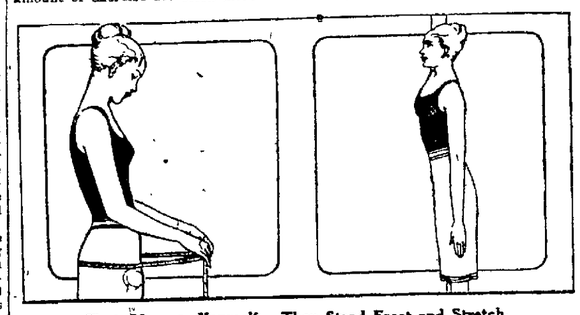

In the first place, you can't afford to skip a single day. It's the steady, unflagging zeal that does the work of reduction. It's also this zeal that is difficult to keep up day in and day out.

But you must remember that it took you a long time to accumulate that flesh, and it may take even longer to lose it. And just wait till you begin to see the results—then it won't be any trouble at all to keep on with the good work!

This exercise must be done slowly and with decisive movements. Five times will probably be enough the first few attempts. I mean five times with each side, but gradually you may get your quota up to ten or fifteen times.

Stand erect and stretch your right arm straight up at your side.

Now, with your left arm reach as far down on your left side as you can without bending your knee. You will find your fingers groping somewhere around your knee. As you practice you will be able to reach further down.

First, Measure Yourself. Then Stand Erect and Stretch.

In doing this you will feel muscles all along your side pulling, and you will realize that they are long-unused muscles, and that exercising them will do much to help you reduce your hips to the slender proportions that beauty and fashion demand.

Repeat, reversing the order. That is, stretching your left arm up and reaching as far down as you can with your right. When you can do this ten or fifteen times without becoming tired keep up this count until you get the desired results.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON
The Authority on Home Cooking

Here Are Various Appetizing Ways to Serve Ham.

HAM is undoubtedly the most universally used meat. Its excellent keeping qualities, its comparatively simple first cooking—boiling—which prepares it for many so-called "made dishes," and its fair price for solid meat make it practical not only for restaurants, but especially for home use.

There is a choice in brands of ham, as a little experimenting will soon show to each housewife's satisfaction. A hard ham or a Virginia ham needs soaking for several hours, but ordinary sugar-cured hams do not need soaking, though it is a good idea to put them on to cook in cold water.

Let them come to boiling point slowly, then throw off the water and add boiling water. If the hams are salty, this second water should be thrown off after boiling 10 minutes. Always make sure that fresh boiling water is at hand to cover the meat as quickly as the other water is thrown off.

The round end of the ham is kept for boiling, while the shank end will yield slices for frying, broiling or baking in a sauce. The extreme end may be boiled with cabbage. What is not eaten may be minced very fine and used in an omelette.

Stuffed Ham

Boil the large half of a ham as usual. When it is tender take it from the water and remove the skin. When slightly cool take out the bone with a narrow, sharp knife.

Have ready a savory stuffing of a few crumbs, a tablespoonful each of chopped raisins, chopped, boiled chestnuts, pepper, salt, juice of an onion, a saltspoonful of curry powder, a dessertspoonful of sugar and just enough cider to moisten it. Stuff the cavity, sprinkle the ham with brown sugar quite thickly and stick it with cloves. Bake, basting frequently with a little cider and melted butter. Cook the ham for about one hour, and serve it hot with a sauce made of the dish gravy.

Ham Pats

Take one cupful of minced, cold cooked ham and mix it with a cupful of fine bread-crumbs, three-quarters of a cupful of mashed potatoes and a beaten egg, pepper, the juice of an onion, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of cream and a heaping spoonful of sifted flour. Mix these ingredients well and shape into pats. Dip the pats into beaten egg and roll them in very fine crumbs. Then cook them in hot fat. Serve the pats garnished with toast sippets and parsley.

Ham Soup

Put the shank end of a boiled ham that has a small amount of meat left on it into two quarts of water with a well-cracked beef soup-bone, the usual washed soup greens and a quarter of a small cabbage. Cook this mixture until the vegetables are all done and the meat on the shank is very tender. Lift the shank, remove the meat and chop it fine. Season the soup, then lift the carrot, which should have been boiled whole, and dice it. Strain the soup and set it aside to get cold. When it is cold, take off the grease, reheat it and add the ham and the carrot. Thicken the soup with butter and flour rubbed to a paste or a little cornstarch dissolved in milk.

WINIFRED BLACK

WRITES ABOUT Heredity or Environment?

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

THE grandson of the great merchant famous around the world for his honesty and his upright dealing, is in prison in France. He's been gambling at Deauville—and when he couldn't pay his gambling debts with honest money, he is said to have forged some checks—and not even the name of his great and highly respected grandfather could save him.

And now he's in prison, with crooks and gamblers, and pickpockets and burglars, and all kinds of criminals, big and little.

What will those who preach to us so glibly of heredity have to say of this affair?

Come, come now, Dr. Eugenics—you've been telling us that no one should marry without a clean bill of health from an examining physician.

You insist that people with a criminal taint or an invalid taint or a mental taint should not marry.

The Two Sides

"We must not hand these tendencies down," you say.

Well, how about this young gentleman and his grandfather, and his grandmother, and his father, and his mother? They were the very pink of propriety, and everyone of them an example to the rest of the world.

What about environment—too?

The world's divided into two classes of thinkers today.

One thinks that nothing can happen to you if you're born right. No matter where you go, or how you were raised, your blood will tell.

"Plant a rose in a barnyard—and it will still be a rose."

That's what the heredity preachers insist.

"Honesty and courage and decency and common sense are born in a man. They're in his blood—or they're not—and that's all there is to it.

"Eugenic marriages, eugenically planned—breed in the good, breed out the bad—that's the only way to improve the race.

"Education, surroundings, youthful training—that tells the whole story," so argues the other side of the house.

"Give me the son of a thief, and let me bring him up in the right surroundings, with the right education, and I'll bet on him against the son of an honest man brought up in a family of thieves," declares the other side.

Which Is Right?

Which side of the argument appeals to you?

Don't ask me what I think about it.

On Monday, when I hear that the daughter of an old friend has broken her mother's heart and thrown her own life away, I think it's her grandmother on her father's side that's to blame.

And when I meet, as I did the other day, an official in high standing in the city of his birth, and realize that he is the son of a beggar and a shoplifter—I give all the credit for his character to the people who took him from the foundling asylum and brought him up in the way of honor and probity.

What a mysterious web we weave with every day we live, and how little we understand the pattern we're helping to make.

Three-Minute Journeys

WHERE BOBBED HAIR MEANS THAT A GIRL IS UNMARRIED.

ONE of the bravest battalions that fought in Mesopotamia during the recent great war was the Kachin battalion.

The Kachins come from Burma, which is under the rule of Great Britain.

It is thought that the Kachins are of Mongolian origin, and that undoubtedly thousands of years ago they came from the northern plateaus of Central Asia.

Although short in stature—the average height being a trifle over five feet—the average Kachin is powerfully built, and has great physical endurance.

A Kachin Maid and a Wife.

When the traveler in Burma sees one of this race, he is immediately reminded of the American Indian. For the Kachins are of the same coloring and have the same high cheek-bones.

Among the Kachins class distinction is visible in their faces. The aristocrats have by far the finer features.

Some of the girls of better class are very attractive. And the surprised traveler, gazing at their hairdresses, wonders at the fleetness with which fashions tour the world.

For the Kachin girls wear their hair in the latest style. Invariably the young girls have bobbed hair. And what is more surprising, they are so up-to-the-minute that they wear bangs!

But on inquiring one finds that this style of hair dressing is not a result of western influence. The Kachins have worn their hair in this manner for centuries.

In this part of Burma, where the Kachins live, woman's state is indicated by her headdress.

The married woman wears a large turban on her head, and what a proud day for the Kachin girl is the day she first has the right to bind her hair in a high impressive turban—and can allow her hair to grow.

Because before that she could neither wear the turban nor wear long hair.

Here in this far eastern country young girls who are unmarried wear their hair bobbed. When you meet a Kachin girl with the latest bob you know she is a "Miss."

ODD FACTS

Southern Rhodesia in South Africa, nearly 300,000 square miles in extent, became, through concessions from a native chief and a charter from the British crown, virtually private property of the British South Africa Company, of which Cecil Rhodes was head. This company for many years actually governed the country, selling land, leasing mineral rights, building railroads and doing other engineering work. In late years however, England has assumed more measure of control over the company's governmental activities, but allows it to go ahead with development work

Why Despair Banished Hope as Madge Listened Unseen.

"WELL, little one?"

These words in Harry Underwood's voice were the first which came floating up to me through the hole in the floor beside my couch.

I thanked my particular little joss for the forethought which had made me move the couch to the spot near the radiator, and for Linda's weakness for drink which had made her use the hole for the concealment of her familiar, the flat bottle, and to hide the fact of the radiator pipe's acoustic qualities from Grace Draper.

Hardly daring to breathe, and with one hand upon the corner of the exquisite hooked rug, ready to throw it back into position at any sign of wakefulness from Linda, I strained my ears to catch every syllable from the room below.

"Well?" Grace Draper's voice was as unfriendly and sullen as Harry Underwood's had been mocking.

"Are you acquainted with that beloved character in fiction, 'The Walrus'?" Mr. Underwood asked with silken suavity, but there was a hint of steel beneath the mockery.

"Oh, can the first act persiflage!" she replied wearily. "If you have anything to say, spill it."

"I was simply going to inform you"—he drawled—"that the said walrus spieled a mouthful when he emitted that well-known remark, 'The time has come.' For we're about to have a show-down, old precious, you and I, with the cards all nicely laid faces up on the table."

I never had heard trepidation in Grace Draper's voice, but I heard it now, although she tried to mask it with bravado.

"I neither know nor care what you mean," she said.

"You will before I'm through with you," he said, his voice suddenly menacing beneath the drawl. "You've double-crossed me, and it never has been considered exactly healthy to do that to me."

"Your Little Game Is Up."

"I haven't," she began defiantly, but his voice with the sharpness of a whiplash cut short her protest.

"You brought Madge Graham here. She's here now. Oh, you needn't trouble yourself to think up any lies about it! I saw her."

"Now I know you're lying," the girl retorted, stressing the pronoun.

"What a complacent, cocksure, courteous charmer you are." His tone was meditative, then changed abruptly. "But you're only wasting time stalling. I saw her in Tony's, and I've been within a few rods of you ever since."

"In Tony's?" Grace Draper replied, and again I detected nervousness. "Then you were—"

"The man on the motorcycle," he returned, and I could imagine the grandiloquent mocking bow with which he accompanied the words. "Exactly. Marvelous intuition."

I caught my breath at the revelation. So my own intuition had not been at fault, although I had not thought of Harry Underwood during those hours of suspense in the limousine. But he was speaking again, slowly, icily, this time.

"So, you see, your little game is up," he said. "And I'm waiting to hear why you butted in on my game. You agreed to leave that dame to me when the time came for nabbing her."

"They wanted her," Grace Draper replied sullenly.

Madge Is Amazed.

"You mean you wanted her," he retorted. "Much they care about her, when they're going to get the old man. He's the only one who knows anything, and I'm the only one who can land him. The old fool still thinks I'm virgin wool."

I stifled a despairing cry with the coverlet. What awful thing did this speech mean? Of course the "old man" meant my father, and I knew only too well his unswerving belief in Harry Underwood's integrity. Had I been right and he wrong after all? Had all Harry Underwood's protestations of friendship and loyalty, his assertion that he was a "glorified stool pigeon" in the camp of the conspirators, been blank, treacherous falsehoods?

"What's the difference which one of us gets her as long as you're as sure at her as you pretend to be?" Grace Draper asked. "If to get even with her is all you want, I promise you she won't need any disciplining after I get through with her. And surely to have dragged her here yourself would have been beneath the dignity of The Big Tangerine."

I almost betrayed my nearness again in my amazement and despair. Harry Underwood was The Big Tangerine.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, APRIL 7.

While the astrologers read this day as important, it may not be without its perplexities and its problems. The nature may still be found to be sensitive and high-strung, with the disposition to delve into the things pertaining to the finer forces and faculties. It may be wise to forego new projects, and to be on guard against treachery or betrayal, although harmony and happiness may rule in the domestic and social circle. The health should be safeguarded.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an interesting year, with probable new angles in thought and research. They should, however, shun new enterprises, and beware false friendships. Guard the health. A child born on this day will have an eventful career.

ADVICE TO GIRLS :: :: By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young man still in my teens.

I am very much in love with a girl of high social standing. She says that she cares for me also, but I am somewhat doubtful about it, especially at times. Although I am a trifle young to be thinking of this, I would like your advice as to how I may find out whether she really does care for me.

She is a beautiful and thoughtful girl—one that a man would hate to lose. THE DOUBTFUL LOVER.

THE DOUBTFUL LOVER. The only way that you can tell whether she's really loves you is to ask her to marry you. But, of course, you are too young for that. Just go on being sweet and kind to her, and when you are older, perhaps things will turn out well.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

For the past two years I have been going with a girl one year my junior, but now I'm sorry to say something has come between us.

The reason, I think, is because I object to other young men visiting her. You see, we are nearly 20 years of age, and I do not want to lose her to some one else.

What can please tell me some way I can keep other young men away and yet have her love me?

BROWN EYES.

BROWN EYES. The only way for you to keep other young men away would be to become engaged to this young girl. But you are too young for that. Why don't you enjoy her friendship and not worry about anything else until you are older?

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens, and am very much in need of your friendly advice.

I am dearly in love with a young man five years my senior, and he has often told me that he loves me. My parents approve of him and think him very nice. But there is an old bachelor boarding at our house, and there is nothing too mean for him to do to try and break our friendship, which I think he will do before very long if he continues. I have often asked my mother to make him leave, and have even threatened to leave if he didn't, but she has never made a move toward telling him.

I am out of work at present, but as soon as I can get work I have a notion to leave.

Please advise me what to do, as I would appreciate your advice very much, and I don't feel as though I can stand it much longer.

HEART-BROKEN BOBBY.

HEART-BROKEN BOBBY. If this man cares for you, nothing can change his affection for you, my dear. Don't pay any attention to what this other man does or says and think a long while before you leave home.

FOSTER SAYS IT'S VICTORY

SIX JURORS REFUSED TO HELP "RAILROAD" COMMUNIST.

Prosecution Attorneys to Decide About Retrial After Other Alleged Communists Hearings Are Held

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 6.—Six jurors voted for acquittal of William Z. Foster because they believed it apparent the prosecution was attempting to "railroad" the alleged communist rather than prosecute him, Mrs. Minerva Olson stated today.

Mrs. Olson, the only woman on the jury, led the faction of six which held out to the last for a decision of not guilty.

The jury was discharged after failing to reach an agreement in two days deliberation.

"It was the duty of the state to prove Foster guilty—not ours to find him guilty to satisfy public opinion," she declared in an exclusive interview.

Foster [illegible] remarkable the six members of the jury, naturally prejudiced against revolutions and violence and all the things talked [illegible] could keep their conviction that a case had not been made. It is for the best and also a victory for the [illegible].

Prosecution [illegible] also [illegible] will decide whether the case will be retried after a trial of other alleged communists arrested in the Bridgman, Mich., communist convention raid.

The Foster jury stood six to six when dismissed by Judge White late yesterday.

Important Test.

Foster's trial on charges of violating the Michigan syndicalist law was the most important test of the communistic movement in this country.

Mrs. Olson, a grandmother in her early forties, was found "cleaning up" in her home after a two day absence.

"The state overplayed its hand," she said, in finally breaking the silence regarding deliberations of the jury. All jurors had previously refused to make any detailed statement.

"Too much evidence was presented. We were swamped with words and lectured from morning until night on communism. We heard little evidence with a direct bearing on whether or not Foster was guilty of a crime.

"Also, coupled with this, was the belief of myself and five others that the setting of the prosecution, with the great display of testimony by detectives and under cover' men made it appear Foster was being railroaded rather than prosecuted."

More than fifty ballots were taken, all standing six to six, she revealed.

"An hour after we started deliberations, we asked the foreman to inform the court that an agreement was hopeless," the woman juror revealed.

Believes in Free Speech.

"My own personal attitude toward the principles involved in the case are that the greatest freedom of speech should be allowed and that any one has a right to advocate any doctrine they wish no matter how absurd it may seem, as long as they do not advocate the use of violence.

"My grandfather fought in the revolutionary war, which may account for some of my feelings.

"Agitators have brought about all progress achieved in the world's history. And I am for progress, not stagnation."

While she enjoyed the experience, Mrs. Olson didn't want any more jury duty.

"The men were very kind and considerate toward me," she said. "There was no friction or show of temper in the jury room. The men smoked most of the time and the air was blue."

Mrs. Olson couldn't refrain from taking advantage of the woman's right for a last word regarding the men. It was:

"Women notice details more than men. I observed that some of the men on jury paid little attention to much detailed evidence presented in the documents and other exhibits and as far as they were concerned, they were hopelessly confused."

GIFT OF CAPITOL NO RELIEF

Board Cannot Wait for It to Be Vacated—Jails Will Be Needed for Some Time.

The state board of control is of the opinion [illegible] of [illegible] in the old capitol will not [illegible] any immediate good toward relieving the crowded condition [illegible] the penitentiary or the reformatory for men, E. C. Oberlies of the board said.

Such institutions as the penitentiary and state reformatory for men are full. Unless relief is given in the way of new buildings, it will be necessary for judges to hold convicted criminals in county jails for the next [illegible]. Many such county jails are not adequate and it is rather doubtful economy to hold prisoners in small groups in local jails rather than to be able to have them employed in constructive labor in larger groups where they can be more cheaply maintained. The factory industry at the penitentiary can make such men more nearly self supporting and the general conditions are better for conserving the health of the prisoners than to have them confined idly in county jails. The board of control feels like sounding this warning to all communities as it will be necessary to fix up the county jails to hold even the less desperate prisoners. Even if the present capitol building is turned over to the board of control it will afford but tardy relief. [illegible] present building [illegible] not be [illegible] [illegible] three years and [illegible] [illegible] years to build [illegible] [illegible] house at the penitentiary. The [illegible] of his salvage [illegible] is [illegible] known."

BANK TAX BILL NOT DEAD

Chairman of Committee on Revenue Urges Its Passage and Suit to Speedily Test Legality.

The senate recommitted S. F. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]tional bank taxes for the year 19[illegible] Anderson told the senate of information received by the committee on revenue. He urged the passage of this bill and suggested a suit to test its validity.

H. R. 616, repealing the firemen's pension law applying to Lincoln, so far as it relates to firemen in the future, was placed upon the general file.

The senate concurred in a conference committee report cutting the appropriation for eradication of scabies in cattle from $10,000 to $7,500.

H. R. 67, relating to division of road taxes for street work was placed on the general file. The action of the senate in defeating H. R. 45, a bill to pay widows of two deceased university instructors, was reconsidered. This leaves the bill on third reading ready for passage.

The senate reconsidered its action on H. R. 466, relating to organization of cooperative associations, and the bill goes back to the committee of the whole.

H. R. 453, amending the compensation law, killed in the senate, was recalled from the house. The senate compensation commissioner desires this bill passed.

MAIL DELAYED BY WRECK

Misouri Pacific Mixup at Paul Was Also a Costly Accident in Other Ways.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., April 6.—This place was without mail service for twenty-four hours Wednesday night and Thursday until the postal department straightened out the tangle that resulted from the Missouri Pacific wreck at Paul, which necessitated the detouring of the main line trains, and the running of a stub from Union here. Eleven cars of merchandise, valued at nearly $50,000, twelve box cars, an engine and tender, and fifty yards of track were ruined by the wreck. The fire in the four grain cars, car of lard, car of butter, and two cars of wheat continued for twenty-four hours after the derailment, while water as hauled from here, to use in fighting the fire. The firemen an dengineer, one brakeman who was asleep in the cab of the engine, and a deaf and dumb hobo, who was riding the rods of the third car [illegible] from the engine, escaped uninjured.

Overloading of a freight train saved M. Goldberg of this city the loss of all his household goods Wednesday morning, and he's now strong for the old saying that it is "an ill wind that blows nobody any good." He is not cussing the railroads for delay in freight shipments either. He is moving his family to Kansas City and had his goods all packed into a Missouri Pacific box car, ready for shipment on train No 162, Thursday morning. When the train arrived at this station, it was found to have all the tonnage it could handle, and the car with his household goods was left standing on the track here. That was the train that was in the wreck at Paul Thursday morning, and had the goods been put into that train here, they would have been burned, as their place would have been closed to the engine.

What I Have Learned in 47 Years Practice

I HAVE been watching the results of constipation for 47 years, since I began the practice of medicine back in 1875. I am now 83 years old, and though from time to time the medical profession makes some wonderfully interesting experiments and tests, the fundamentals of causes and relief in this particular ailment are unchanged.

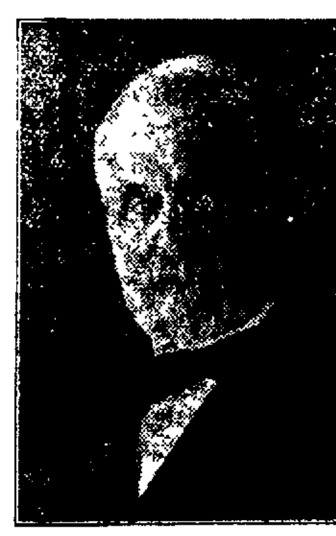

But the people take greater interest today in their health, in diet, exercise and the drinking of water. Constipation, however, will occur from time to time no matter how one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. I believe in getting as close to nature as possible, hence my remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It is made of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. Children will not willingly take bitter things. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written me to that effect.

Over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are now sold every year, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world. I say family laxative because all in the family can use it with safety. It is mild enough for the infant in arms, effective in the most chronic constipation of an adult. The formula is on every package.

Recently there has been a new wave of drastic physics. Calomel, a mercurial that salivates and loosens teeth, has been revived; salt waters and powders that draw needed constituents from the blood; coal tar disguised in candy form that causes skin eruptions. In a practice of 47 years I have never seen any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping, and without shock to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It lowers your strength 28 per cent, hardens the arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope but go to a druggist and get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a generous-size bottle. Take a teaspoonful that night and by morning you will be well. The cost is only about a cent a dose. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, piles, indigestion, loss of appetite or sleep, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

I REPEAT MY FREE OFFER
$10,000 worth of trial bottles of Syrup Pepsin free

Last year I agreed to spend $10,000 cash for free samples of my Syrup Pepsin, and send them free and postage paid to all who asked. A tremendous mail was the result. But there must be many who did not write. I would like to get their address this time. So I now renew my offer, in remembrance of my approaching 84th birthday, and will again devote $10,000 to free samples. I am anxious to see one in every American home. Write for yours today. Simply give me your address. Send it to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Mine is truly a free gift; it costs the public nothing.

In LINCOLN

The human mind is still an interesting mystery. We know little about the motor which generates the power that runs our dreams and desires.

The billions of wants that creep into our minds are the excuse for that incessant whir of the world's machinery.

It's just a part of nature to want what we do not have or swap what we have for something more desirable.

Each want is a tiny seed—to bear fruit like other seeds, must be planted in the field of supply.

Can you conceive of a greater garden spot of supply than the pages of a newspaper which carry a "want" directly to the brain center of thousands and thousands of people each day?

Can there be any better, virgin, "bottom blackland" soil in which to plant "want" seeds, in the shape of a few lines under proper classification, than a powerful newspaper?

It doesn't matter whether the want is to buy, sell, rent or exchange a thing; or to find employment or help—RESULTS WILL SPRING UP OVER NIGHT.

Journal want ad columns are the richest, most productive garden spot for want supplies in Lincoln.

BAILEY AND BOOL STAY IN BIG SHOW

St. Louis Cards Wire Manager Beltzer That Remaining Money in Deal Is Forthcoming—New Outfielder Signed

Seymour "Hooks" Bailey and Albert Bool, two members of last year's Lincoln state league club, have shown their stuff to the evident satisfaction of Branch Rickey & Company and this pair of native Nebraskans are now the property of the St. Louis Cardinals

Manager Buck Beltzer is in receipt of a telegram in which the St Louis management advises him that the money due the Lincoln club in case these two pastimers stuck will be forthcoming.

Bool will be placed with the Syracuse, N. Y., club for another year's seasoning but it looks like Bailey had won a place on the regular pitching staff of the Cards. Wigington, Hastings twirler, also appears for the St Louis club in exhibition games against Rochester, N. Y.

The New Yorkers found "Hooks" for five hits in three innings but he managed to turn back a trio at the plate Wigington was nicked for five hits in four innings but he poled a two-sacker himself.

Manager Beltzer has another outfielder signed. He is F. D. Montieth, who hails from the great open spaces when men are said to be men.

Montieth was given a big boost in letters received last season by Field Captain Scott Dye. His home is in Colorado and he has been going great guns with the semi-pros. The recruits and regulars of the Lincoln club start spring practice here April 16

Sportsman's park in St. Louis is the only major league park in which two teams play, the Cards and the Browns sharing the place Until the New York Yanks finished their new two million dollar stadium this year the Giants and the Yanks played on the Polo grounds.

"Why are so many good young ball players being developed on the Pacific coast? W. R. O.

That is almost as hadl to answer as why is the Pacific coast? It just happens to be that way at present. Probably it is because of the climatic conditions which permit youngsters to play almost the year around. It is also the result of the desire of youngball players to sign up with California teams and it may be to that the youngsters care more for baseball out there than they do in the east.

"Has Luis Firpo, the South American heavyweight, any chance to win the world's championship?

FIGHT FAN.

Handed properly, Firpo has a most excellent chance to become the champion in about a year or so. He has everything that a great fighter should have but experience and if he isn't bounced over getting that he ought to get to the top. He can "take it" and he can hit and he is a huge, powerful man with the instinct. Little else is needed.

HUSKER-BEAR MEET MAY BE POSTPONED

Bad Weather Causes Team to Hold Indoor Workouts—Squad May Be Held Until Next Week.

(By Maurice Gardner, Member Nebraska Track Squad)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 5.—The Nebraska-California track meet, which is scheduled to take place April 7 may be postponde until next week because of inclement weather. The squad has been forced to hold indoor workouts. The field men will be handicapped unless they are able to get some outdoor practice. If the meet is postponed, the Husker trackstrs will be kept here until next week.

Rain Wednesday made the Nebraskans limber up on the indoor track. Coach Schulte held another light indoor workout Thursday afternoon.

The Nebraska alumni took the squad on a three hour trip thru Oakland, Berkeley, San Francisco and the surrounding section during the forenoon, Thursday. The team members were the guests of Olympic club of 'Frisco, following the trip.

Back in New York for a Main Bout—Meeting with Johnny Regan—In the $50 Class—Reminiscences of Jack Johnson—What Is a Fighter's Worst Enemy.

(Copyright 1923, U. S. and Canada, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

While I had become rather attached to Philadelphia and was willing to make my home there I began to realize that I had to look for other fields if I wanted to eat regularly I was getting up around 140 pounds and I couldn't get any opponents at that weight or even in heavier classes.

Wins First Main Bout.

Billy Elmers, who ran a club on Sixty-sixth street in New York, offered me $50 to go on for ten rounds with Mississippi, a rather popular boxer around New York then. He offered me the chance to go on in the main bout, and as it was the first time that I had been so honored I decided to accept it.

I had nevergone any more than six rounds but I knew that I was strong enough to go that distance and I won the popular decision from Mississippi The next night I went on in Brooklyn with Terry Young and got $25 for six rounds and on the following night I picked up $30 in a bout with Eddie O'Neil.

Such an avalanche of cash made me feel like I was getting rich and I was highly elated at being able to step around with over $100 in my pocket. But the days of fat and plenty didn't last long. The matchmakers around New York told me that I was a good boxer but that the boys who could hit were the ones that drew the crowd.

It hurt me to be told that and to hear my friends saying that I ought to develop a punch instead of trying to earn a meager living as a dancer. I realized, however, that they were right. I went back to Philadelphia and started to learn the knack of hitting, if possible.

Battle With Johnny Regan.

Some time later Jim Buckley was arranging an all-star card at his Bath Beach club in Brooklyn and he offered me at en-round bout with Johnny Regan for $50. Johnny Regan was one of the top notchers at that time and had gone twenty rounds to a draw with Abe Attell.

All my friends urged me to accept, saying that it was a great chance for me if I thought I could knock him out, but they all warned that he was almost sure-to outpoint me if it went the limit.

I accepted the offer and went on with him that night. I felt it was my first big fight and I was a little bit nervous as the house was filled with a lot of expert critics. It was the first time that I had ever been affected by a "house." We went along for one round. I was dancing around trying to feel him out and keeping my left hand in his face.

Starting the second round I thought he was open for a right hand and I worked him around for it. He was led into a trap and I got a right hand over to the jaw and he went down for the count.

I have been asked a thousand times how I felt the first time I had knocked out an opponent. I have always replied that I didn't know and I do not remember. I do not recall that it brought any great thrill. I didn't think that he was down to stay and if I did have any emotion it was due to surprise when the count was finished over him.

When I got back to the dressing room, I began to feel good over the victory, not particularly because of the fact that I had knocked an opponent out but because I thought it would help me along in the game

I went back to Philadelphia again and found enough work to keep me going. I figured that I had graduated into the ranks of "windups" and I wouldn't consider offers for any preliminary bouts or for any purse less than $50. I finished up the year 1906 with a number of small bouts at little clubs winning them all on decisions

Meeting With Jack Johnson.

In 1907 we began to work around outside of Philadelphia. One night twelve of us went down to Lancaster, where "Diamond Lew Bailey" was running boxing shows. I was to go on with Lou Houck in a ten-round windup number, and Jack Johnson was the referee. I had no trouble in winning.

Coming back to Philadelphia we were all very tired The train was late and did not get into Lancaster until we in the morning. We boxers had to pile into the smoker, while Johnson went back in another car with Bailey and some others of the "aristocracy."

Johnson was always up to some kind of a joke and this night his idea of having a good time was to walk thru the car just when we all had succeeded in going to sleep and pounding us over the head with a roll of papers

After making three trips thru the car we began to get sore at him and we decided that the next time he came in we would gang him and give him a roughing up on the floor. That sounded fine until some suggestions were made as to the ones who should start the attack Several suggested. "You do it Britton," and I accepted the honor.

Some time later, we beheld the golden smile of Jack in the doorway. He had a big roll of papers and he was trying to sneak in.

"Go on, Britton, get on 'im," the gang began to order in a stage whisper.

Jack looked too big for Britton at that moment, however, and I didn't make a move. We finally did run him out of the car with a barrage of shoes, however, and he didn't return for the rest of the trip.

How Mistakes Are Made.

Johnson always was a fine fellow in his dealings with young boxers. I never heard him boast or conduct himself in anything but a gentlemanly manner. I can well understand how he made his mistakes. He isn't the only one who has make them and he isn't the last one to make them. Jack was uneducated and illiterate He liked company and he liked good things. When he got the money, he didn't know how to distinguish between friends and leeches and the leeches got to him.

It is not easy to lead the simple life when chances for a good time are constantly being offered to you. When you are boxing regularly and keeping in strict training, the desire to go out once in a while for relaxation is almost irresistible. When persons have remarked to me about the big money that boxers make in these days I generally reply:

"They earn it."

Most of the champions today know that the candle can be burnt at only one end. Any young boxer just startling out would learn the same lesson if he would just look around. It takes a strong will to stay away from the good times, but the reward of keeping away from the bright lights is worth any kind of sacrifice.

Common Sense Versus Bright Lights.

I have in mind the case of a young bantamweight boxer. I thought at one time that he was sure to be the champion of his class. He was an East-side New York boy, never had anything, and was forced to fight almost for his existence. He worked up to a bout in Madison Square Garden in which the survivor was to get a match with the champion. It meant almost the same as the title as either one of them was sure to beat the champion.

They fought fifteen rounds to a draw, and they were both given $10,000. One took his money to the bank and later paid off a mortgage on his father's home. The other youngster, the one I have in mind, went up on Broadway and was taken for everything he had.

He was offered a return bout and he was forced to accept altho he was not in condition. He was knocked out.

Such examples are too numerous to mention, but there will be many, many more on the list.

Like the prospectors up in the Klondike during the rush days, we boxers are always hearing about "strikes" in other sections of the country. About this time, stories were going around about the opportunities in the south, and I began to get the wanderlust. My invasion of the south, which really was the start of my career, will be recounted in the next chapter.

HASTINGS COLLEGE TRACKSTERS BUSY

Many Veterans Reporting for Berths on Squad—Schedule Arranges for Four Conference Meets.

HASTINGS, Neb., April 5.—Twenty-five veteran performers and many aspirants are reporting to A. F. Holste, Hastings coach, in the pre-season workouts that are being held on the cinder path. Many of the candidates who are reporting helped Hastings win second place in the conference meet last year. With these men back in their abbreviated costumes and many novices showing good form, prospects are bright for a winning track team at Hastings

Captain Chandler who won the two mile run at the state meet last year is again digging his spikes into the turf Anderson, who was a member of the relay team, placed second in the 440 and tied for second in the broad jump, is working in each of his events Waunder, winner of the high jump, Young, who was second in the high hurdles; Rasp, a member of the relay team and fourth in the 220, and Harris, who won fourth in the $80 are undergoing the daily grind under the guidance of Coach Holste Hornstead, winner of the shot, hammer, and discus events in the meet of '21 and Ambrose who won the mile and two mile events in the same meet are also reporting back for work

Other candidates who are showing good form are Taylor in the hurdles, Stephens in the high and broad jumps; Kirk, a pole vaulter, Keirp, a quarter and half miler; Johnson Whitlock, Carpenter, and Webster in the distance runs: French and Isaman in the middle distance events; Woodworth in the 220; and Drejbelbis throwing the discus. Many of the other tracksters are showing good form.

Hastings college will compete in four state conference meets during the coming track season The schedule:

April 20-21—Class Meets
April 28—Doane at Hastings
May 12—Peanc, Wesleyan, Hastings meet at University Place
May 19—State conference meet at University Place

Ray Davis to Head S.S. League Circle

Ray Davis was elected president of the Sunday school league for the coming season at a meeting of the team representatives which was held at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night. Ted Sick was chosen vice president. John W. Fuhrer, athletic director at the Y, was selected secretary and treasurer.

The meeting was called to organize the clubs for the coming season. Plymouth M. E., Grace M. E., St. Paul M. E., Second Baptist, College View, Westminster Presbyterian, Warren M. E., Epworth M. E., and Waverly M. E. have expressed a desire to enter the league. John Fuhrer said that as many teams as wanted to enter would be permitted to come into the '23 loop.

Ray Davis and John Fuhrer were chosen on a grounds committee to locate diamonds. Dr. M. C. Pederson, Dr. H. A. Capek, and Clark King were placed on a committee to arrange rules, regulations and a schedule. The committees are to report at the next meeting of the league, April 12.

MAY GIVE KILBANE AND WILSON CHANCE

New York Commission Squares Up With Gibbons and Dempsey—Criqui Continues to Hold the Empty Bag.

By Henry L. Farrell.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Now that the New York boxing commission has turned back and voted a square deal for Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons, it is understood that the commission will turn lenient for Johnny Wilson and Johnny Kilbane.

The case of Kilbane, who is barred from boxing in New York, certainly demands a change of heart from the commission, for several reasons.

Did Not Ask License.

Kilbane is legally right in declaring that the New York commission had no jurisdiction over him and had no right to suspend him when he had never asked for a license to box in this state. If Kilbane should go to court the commission might be reversed.

In addition to the apparent injustice being done to Kilbane, the continuance of a suspension on him will be a marked act of inhospitality to Eugene Criqui, the French featherweight, who came over here expecting to meet Kilbane.

Criqui turned down several matches in Europe where he has been offered good purses to come to this country at a great expense. He was notified when he arrived that Kilbane could not fight him, and he is now holding the bag and saving up his money waiting for the commission to come to his assistance. It would have been at least the courteous thing to have served notice on the Frenchman before he made the trip over here.

Kilbane is being kept out of New York because he will not accept the challenge of Johnny Dundee, filed more than a year ago. Tom O'Rourke tried to make the match last winter and found that Dundee did not care to talk.

Southeast Golfers May Organize Club

Your Problems
BY MARY GORDON

...rest Mary Gordon: I am asking you a fue qustion wich I am sure ... will answer.

... Mary I am a young man of 20 old and am going with a girl ame age

... is one of theas religous kind ... know how they are, won't let you ... kiss them. Goody, goody kind. ... Mary I have went with this ... for about 8 month and she is a ... girl and I love her with all my ... but for some reason she will ... let me kiss her.

She says she loves me and I can ... her but lay off the kissing till ... know one another better.

Now Mary what do you think of a ... that would tell a boy that.

... had trouble last night she re... to let me kiss her and I told ... time she could head in at that ... I went with a girl 8 months and could not kiss her then she could go ... and I would go mine.

... Mary she cryed when I left her ... and were the words she said ... come back and see me when you ... be gentleman enough to treat me ... I ought to be treated.

I told her where she could go and ... sorry so sorry she is the girl I ... I know it.

... and thought all day about it. ... she was a wise girl was she ... Now do you realy think so.

All I have been taught is that girls ... just made to kiss and love that ... what other fellows tell me but I ... anged my mind about her. I have ... sisters no father or mother so I ... one of your problems so decided ... write.

Shell I go back and ask her forgiveness" I am welcome she told me any time I could come and behave I was her most welcome friend on earth.

Now Mary I am going back to that black eyed girl and ask to be forgived and to take me and try to reform me make my life worth living.

All I ever was was a crook and a thief but forgive me Mary I never had a chance.

I never was a thing only a homeless boy if I only had a papa and mama I know I would have been a good boy. Please answer theas will you Mary.—Pal.

A. I think you should thank the all wise Creator for placing in your way a girl of such high ideals. Go back to her at once, tell her you are sorry you offended her and promise both her and yourself you will never do it again. Resolve that your lack of early training will not handicap you any further in life. Play the game straight after this, with both man and woman, and find some honest work to do. The girl will forgive you, I know, and help you to win back your self-respect. And for her sake never lose it again.

All kinds of happiness to you both!

Dear Mary: Please excuse my using a pencil Mary but you see when you're staying with other peopie you can not have everything you want such as pens, etc., but I have a question which I have been trying to solve. I am afraid I can't, so will come to you for help. You have been so kind to others I know you will be to me. This is the problem, last winter I went to another state to visit with some friends. I had never been there before. While there I met a young man, it seemed like everywhere I went I met him, everybody wanted me to go with him. I would not give him a date for that reason, but nevertheless I grew to like him very much, the last evening I was there my friends gave a card party for me and this young man was my partner. I admired him so very much. After the folks had gone I had a few, very few moments alone with this young man; He told me he was so sorry I was leaving but wanted to come to Lincoln to see me. In his first letter he said he had made plans to come, but has never mentioned it since. Now as my home is in the west. I am leaving very soon but I want to go back for two weeks more. Now Mary, this is what I want to know, would it be proper for me to write and tell him if he can come up the Sunday before I leave I will go back with him as it is only about a six hour ride.

One more question, after I had grown so fond of him I found out he had been married but has been divorced for three years. Should I give him up on that account? Or is it wrong to marry a divorced person? I am so worried, and I can't tell mother she is too far away. Please answer right away Mary for I only have a few more days in which to decide then I must act. I won't write to him until I hear from you. Will close as —A Reader.

A. Personally I do not believe in the remarriage of divorced persons. However, when there are no scruples in the matter on either side, there are many remarried divorcees who seem happy. But my dear girl, there are so many young men in the world who have not the handicap of a divorce, why not wait a little while? You like this man very much, now, you say. Remember that if you become more closely acquainted with him, it may be impossible for you to give him up, even tho your reason may tell you you should.

And even tho you go back to that town to visit, why bring him here first? You could judge his attitude much better by quietly slipping to your friends instead of making a confession of your interest in him by asking him to Lincoln first.

It may seem harsh, but consider that if this man could not hold the affection of one woman, or if he ceased to consider his responsibility toward her he may treat you the same way. I know there are innocent victims of divorce, but they are all too few.

I believe you have not yet reached the point where you "cannot live without him." The fact that you ask my advice shows you are doubtful, shows it is not too late for you to cast him out of your life. Because he has never fulfilled his promise to visit you in Lincoln I am inclined to think you may be pinning too much on a false hope. Lots of men tell girls they are sorry they are leaving, just to be polite. Many say things much more capable of being construed as loverlike, and forget her the next day. If I were you I'd go out west and forget him. And believe me, I am considering your happiness above all else, when I urge you to do that.

Dearest Mary Gordon: As a member of your contest I wish to describe you as I have had you pictured in my visions

I think you are about five feet, four inches tall and quite heavy set. You have dark brown hair, combed quite fluffy and attractive. Your eyes are brown and your complexion is light. I think you dress very stylish and neat and from your looks a person could tell at once that you had a noble personality.—Lovelight.

A. Feel "turribly" complimented, but I fear you'll never win the prize. However, your description is as nearly correct as any I have received.

Dear Mary Gordon: I have never written to you before but I always read your column.

I am a senior in high school. I am considered good looking. I do not use rouge and lipstick

I have been going with a young man who moved to this town from out west. And what bothers me most is a girl who calls herself a flapper. She hast been telling some things about my friends and me. She told this boy some lies about me. He has not asked me for a date since and he does not stop me to talk any more I love this young man. What shall I do?

I would like to have Lonesome to write to your column again. I liked the letter Lonesome wrote yesterday. Lonesome, if you will send your address I and my two friends will send our address. We believe that your letters would be very interesting and would like to hear from you. Lonesome, I am sure that we do not live far apart and if you live close we would like to see you at some of the entertainments. Boberett is my pal. We both go to the dances that are in our home town but we never go to the other town because we don't know what kind of company we would be in. I hope this will not make you hate us, Lonesome. I hope I will see this in your column Mary, and I will be glad to hear from Lonesome.—Little Beauty.

A. If the young man dropped you without investigating the truth of what the other girl told him, I'm sure he is not worth worrying about.

If Lonesome wants to write to you thru this column all right. But I can't exchange addresses for you.

Dear Mary Gordon: As I have been reading letters in your column and think it is the best advice a girl could receive, I am coming also, since my pals, Little Beauty and Mama's Darling are writing to you.

I am a girl in my teens and am considered very good looking. I do not use rouge, but just plain white powder. I have my hair bobbed but I did not do this for style but because my hair was so thin. I am in the senior class in high school but my trouble is this. I have been keeping company with a boy one year my senior. He is a good boy who does not gamble or run around all over the country. My folks like him very much, and so do I. There is two girls in this town who are jealous because I go with him and they have gone and told him a lot of stuff of me which is not so. He now goes with the other girls. He is not mad at me but he does not ask me to go with him any more. Shall I turn him down when he does or shall I tell him why I do not go with him? Shall I drop his company?

Lonesome, I am very much interested in your letters, write again. If you will send your address to Mary Gordon, my two pals, Little Beauty and Mama's Darling and myself would like to correspond with you.—Boberett.

A. Your treatment of the young man must depend on your feeling for him. How do you know he is going to ask for another "date?"

Dear Mary Gordon: This is my first letter to your column, but I have been an interested reader of it for a long time.

I think that if the girls would take your advice they would be better off.

I am a young girl in the later part of my teens, I am considered the beauty of high school. I do not use rouge nor lip stick, but just plain harmless powder.

Now for my troubles. I am the only child of the family, my folks are opposed of my going with the boys. Now there is one boy that I think lots of. He is in the early twenties, he is a musician and plays for dances. This lowers him in the eyes of my folks But really he is a good boy. He plays only for old fashioned dances as they are called now. He thinks the jazz dances are terrible and so do I. I love to dance the old fashioned dances.

Why is it when my folks say that they trust me, that they would not let me go with the boys?

The kids at school call me mamma's darling because I can't go with the boys. Please tell me what to do

Lonesome, I like your way of thinking. You are one of the very few boys that have any sense. I would like very much to get acquainted with you. Please don't think I am loud and forward because I am not

I am a daughter of a wealthy farmer I dislike very much the ways of the loud and course girls, write again. I love to read your letters

Little Beauty and Boberett are my school pals.—Mama's Darling

A. The fact that the young man is a musician is probably not your parents' only reason for disapproving of him That alone could constitute no serious objection. Perhaps there is something else which they have not told you. I believe I should do as my parents wish. They really know best. Some of these days when they realize you are a young lady and a nice young man comes along they will allow you to have company like other girls.

To Remove Tar from Fabrics.

Usually a combination of solvents works best for removing tar. Carbon tetrachloride will do if the stains are not too old, otherwise brush first with chloroform and then use the carbon tetrachloride. Sometimes ether will take them out when all else fails. On silk it is often necessary to soften the stain with fresh oil. Work it in well, but do not injure the threads or separate the fiber. A good way to clean it is to stretch the spot over a Mason jar. When it comes time to clean, run a ring of pure solvent around the outline made by the top of the jar and work toward the center, letting the dirty solvent drop in the bottle.

MRS. MURPHY CARRIES ON

Wife of "Big Tim" Heads Gas Workers' Union While Husband Serves His Term.

CHICAGO, April 6.—While "Big Tim" Murphy, Chicago labor leader, is serving a term in Atlanta penitentiary in connection with a mail robbery here, Mrs. Florence V. Murphy, his wife, is "carrying on" as ruler of the gas workers' union

The gas workers' union was organized by Murphy. Tim's brother, James Murphy, is president of the union, but his sister-in-law shows up at the organization headquarters every day at 8 a. m. to tell him what to, other officials disclosed today.

Mrs. Murphy settles all disputes, it was also revealed.

All Fat People Should Know This

Fat people owe a debt of gratitude to the author of the new famous Marmola Prescription, and are still more indebted for the reduction of this harmless, effective obesity remedy to tablet form. Marmola Prescription Tablets can be obtained at all drug stores the world over at the reasonable price of one dollar for a case, or you can secure them direct on receipt of price from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. This now leaves no excuse for dieting or violent exercise for the reduction of the overfat body to normal.—Advertisement.

Why Not Feel Youthful —and Be Beautiful?

Science Offers You Lyko, the Great General Tonic, to Give You Health, Strength, Attraction

Men who win in business and women whose beauty and charm make them popular in society are invariably healthy people. It is health which gives the vivacious spirits, the sparkling eyes and the attractive personality which brings success and makes friends.

Thousands of people have awakened to the importance of keeping the body in normal condition and have found wonderful help in Lyko, the great general tonic.

Take, for instance, Mr. Mitchell Murray, well known in northern Missouri. Mr. Murray writes, "When I began to take Lyko I was so weak I could hardly walk across the room. Now I am able to do a pretty fair day's work and my neighbors are surprised at the effect."

Mr. W. L. Lawler of Alabama says: "This is one of the greatest tonics for vitality, digestion and liver trouble. A general rebuilder for run-down persons. It made me an entirely new man at 55. I feel like I am only 30 years of age today."

These are only two out of the multitudes of letters from grateful people who have recovered their strength and energy by the aid of Lyko and who recommend it as the best medicine they have ever used to restore the system to its normal, healthy state.

The amazing power of Lyko to quickly build up run-down people is due to the fact that it acts on all parts of the system. It is a great general tonic compounded from pure medicinal ingredients, each of which has its own special properties.

One of these ingredients is a mild but efficient laxative which cleanses the bowels and keeps one free from constipation, another acts beneficially on the liver and kidneys, a third aids digestion so that the body absorbs the full strength from the food, another steadies the nerves and helps to overcome sleeplessness, irritability and nervous depression. There is not an ailing part of the body which does not feel the benefit of Lyko.

If you suffer from the effects of sickness, overwork or worry; if you have indigestion, constipation or kidney trouble; if you are bilious; if you lie awake nights; if you lack that energy and spirit which wins success and popularity, put Lyko at work to build up your strength and vitality. See how soon you will feel like new. Lyko is sold by all reliable druggists. Ask for it today.

Demon Rum in a Fight for Life

"Pieces of Eight! Pieces of Eight!" screamed the parrot in "Treasure Island," and, at the climax of that great epic of adventure, wicked and delightful pirates bellowed a chorus of "Yo-ho-ho and a bottle of rum!" Those were great days, also, when adventure beckoned from the Spanish Main and young blood leapt to meet it. It is something of this old thrill, critics of our time announce, that is helping to keep alive the liquor traffic in these supposedly dry United States. The freebooter of another day has passed on certain of his characteristics to the bootlegger of the present time.

In this week's LITERARY DIGEST, you will read a story of the dark and devious ways by which the rum-running business is conducted; where the armadas of rum-ships are located; how pirates prey upon the bootleg fleet; how prohibition is working in the Province of Ontario, Canada. In fact, the picturesque side of this illegal business is illustrated and described in a highly entertaining way.

CLINICAL MAN KNOCKED OUT

GETS SAME MEDICINE HANDED HIM TWO YEARS AGO.

Standing Committees Stick Knife Into Eleven Bills Including Three Which Pertain to Marriages.

The clinical man is dead again. He died two years ago in house committee of the whole and this year he died twice. The senate bumped him off and he was also assassinated in house standing committee. His full and complete name is clinical psychologist. He is attached or was attached to H. R. 646, bill to establish a bureau of juvenile research to provide for commitment of dependent, neglected defective and delinquent children.

Three house marriage bills were killed in house committee for the reason that such of the subject matter as the legislature cares to adopt is contained in S. F. 92. The house dead:

H. R. ... by Svoboda and others—No person afflicted with venereal disease shall be permitted to marry in this state. Male applicant for license shall furnish certificate of health.

H. R. ... by Svoboda and others—Requires application for marriage license at least ten days before issuance of same. Provides for notification to parents and publication.

H. R. 420, by Johnston—No person who is afflicted with ... venereal disease or who is an imbecile ... feeble-minded person ... shall marry ...

Representative Bock's bill pertaining to public grain warehouses, H. R. 79, was killed as was H. R. 580, requiring four years in high school and two years in college or university before license issued to practice medicine, osteopathy, chiropractic, Christian science or other of the healing arts.

Another bill to receive the knife was S. F. 211, providing that final adjustment premium paid by insured on employers mutual liability policy shall be based on remuneration carried during policy period.

WHAT'S HAPPENED TO THE EARLY MARRIAGE?

"The reason that influences me and many of my friends against matrimony is that for the self-supporting girl marriage to a man earning the same salary or little more means a step downward and backward," writes Mary" in a letter which we take to represent the viewpoint of many highly trained modern young women.

"Marriage," she continues, "makes no difference in a man's standard of living. Even the man who hands his unopened pay envelope to his wife does so with the tacit understanding that he is to have as much of it back as he wants whenever he wants it. And if she protests—a splendid comedy situation. Only when one imagines one's self in the role of the wife it seems more like a tragedy.

"In other words, the woman must make all the sacrifices. In this week's Saturday Evening Post there is a story of Sophie Kerr the moral of which (if I may dare use such an expression about a modern story) is that a wife should be glad to give up silk underwear and fur coats in order that her husband might have home cooked doughnuts. Do people really believe that a girl has such love, honor and respect for a man's stomach that she would deliberately choose to give up her little luxuries for the sake of his comfort?

"Isn't a woman just as important as a man? Why should it be she who gives up and he who enjoys?

"One of Him,' in demanding the necessary sacrificing type, says very definitely what he expects her to give up, but, although he says, I will make sacrifices for her (comfort),' he gives no details. What does he intend to sacrifice? His smoking, his clubs, his bootleg booze? Do you know any married men who have given up any of these things? I know many wives who have to wear the same clothes year after year because the money goes for their husbands' indulgences along these and other lins.

"It is no solution to suggest that the wife go on working, for that makes children impossible, or children make that impossible, whichever way one regards it, and the desire for children is the reason most girls marry. In spite of all she knows of the pain, danger and overwork incidental to motherhood, the average girl has a strong desire for children or at least for a child. Indiscriminate child-bearing is no longer necessary. But even if a girl does not want or cannot have children, her working outside means that she has two jobs, or at least a job and a half, if her husband does his share of the housework. Who wants more work? Certainly no man does.

"Those old-timers who said the place for woman was in the home certainly knew what they were talking about. The only way any human being—why do people always forget that a woman is that?—could ever be hypnotized into bearing all the burdens of a poor man's wife is by never having been outside the walls of home.

"No one who has ever had a taste of freedom, of REMUNERATIVE work or of decent and unskimping standards of living would go back to the traditional twenty-four-hour unsalaried job of housewife. The marriage question does not seem to me to be 'Why not?' To any thinking woman it is rather, 'Why?'"

And there, it occurs to us, is the question which the modern young man has to answer. Why should a girl marry him—a girl who does not need 'support,' who, instead of marrying for a home, can make a more comfortable home for herself if she remains unmarried?

The answer, of course, is that he himself must be the attraction; that he must give her certain qualities of companionship, must satisfy certain emotional needs. He can't buy her—he hasn't the price. He can't hire her as a housekeeper who will bear his name and be content with board wages. The market for her services is too brisk. He can't capture her. The only thing left for him to do is to capture her imagination.

"There are many girls today in New York—and not the old maid type, either—who are profoundly lonely and unhappy, who would be delighted with the task of being a real comrade and helpmate to some man—provided they loved him enough to marry him," writes "L. S."

"Why don't we get married? First, frankly, because men don't ask us; and secondly, because all the unhappy marriages and divorces and scandals about which we hear make us think. We are looking for something more than just a home or a 'meal ticket,' such as satisfied our grandmothers, such as many men still think we want.

"The modern girl has been educated to the point where she looks for a mate whose interests are in accord with hers; for a marriage in which each will try to understand the other's nature, in which there is love, respect, an inspiration to better things. She wants to make the union a worthwhile one instead of making a mess of it and finding it out too late.

"But it seems hard to find the type of man who interests one; he just simply doesn't come along, or, if he does, HE isn't interested. I do know, however, that many of us would be far happier married than single, not because of the material things we might expect to get, but because of the companionship, the knowledge that we love and are loved, the chance to do things for one another because of one another. Some of the men ought to be convinced that we are just as human as our grandmothers were and perhaps better prepared to meet married life because of our knowledge of how hard it is to earn the 'almighty dollar.'"

ASK FOR A TRANSFER TRACK

Schuyler Milling Company Wants Two Roads to Join in Increase of Facilities.

The Wells, Neimann, Abbott company of Schuyler, proprietors of what they claim is the biggest mill in the state, has filed an informal request with the state railway commission asking that an order issue to compel the Union Pacific and Burlington to build a connecting track at that place so that carloads of grain and mill products may be transferred from one road to another. They point out that their business is so large that the Union Pacific, on which their mill is located, is unable at all times to supply them with grain and that much grain must be bought on the Burlington lines. To get this grain to the mill it is necessary to shop the grain via the Burlington to Fremont and then transfer it to the Union Pacific, adding an equivalent of about 10 cents a barrel to the cost of the flour, which they declare represents a fair profit, but because of competition in the business they cannot take and pay the higher rate. The Burlington's nearest track to their mill at Schuyler is seven and one-half blocks, and to build a track to their mill would necessitate traversing the main street of the town for that distance. They ask that the commission order the two roads to construct a transfer track at Schuyler.

ACCIDENT VICTIMS RECOVERING.

The condition of R. E. Lind, 1122 North Twenty-fifth, who was hurt in an auto accident Thursday afternoon, has improved. He will recover, according to recent report from St. Elizabeth's where he is confined. His auto was overturned on the O street viaduct. Both his legs were hurt, his chest slightly crushed and his head bruised.

C. O. Wilson, who was injured in a fall from a wagon late Thursday, will recover. His condition is not considered serious: Three ribs were broken and one of his ears was almost torn off. He was taken to the home of a sister at 3115 O street.

ACADEMY OF SCIENCE IN ANNUAL MEETING

Program of Thirty-third Session Announced for Next Week, Includes Some Popular Lectures.

The program of the thirty-third annual meeting of the Nebraska Academy of Science has been announced by Dr. H. G. Deming, president of the academy. This organization was formed by a small group of men interested in science and has held annual meetings for thirty-three years. Prominent among the charter members are Prof. G. D. Swezey, professor of astronomy at the University of Nebraska; J. S. Dales, secretary of the board of regents, and Dean Roscoe Pound, now of the Harvard law school. From that small beginning the organization has now grown to over 200 members. All persons interested in science are eligible to membership.

Every second annual meeting has been held in Lincoln of recent years. The approaching meeting will take place next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The public is welcome to all sessions. The full program of the academy follows:

The Vital Flame

A Stirring Serial of Primitive Passion

by May Christie

CHAPTER V

[illegible] captain and the ship's detective [illegible] story, although Marcella, wishing [illegible] pare Deirdre, made no mention [illegible] the latter's warning of the [illegible] on [illegible] the affair in our hands, and [illegible] prime forget about it," said the [illegible] kindly, noticing Marcella's tired looks.

Miss Holden's company that in[illegible] wasn't difficult. Marcella [illegible] a happy day, which terminated [illegible] a peaceful night.

[illegible] the last hours aboard ship came. [illegible] the eighth morning the boat was [illegible] dock at Southampton, and on [illegible] before a dance was held, [illegible] acknowledged belle was Miss [illegible] Field. She was besieged with [illegible] [illegible] always her thoughts turned to [illegible]

[illegible] had had five dances, then an [illegible] during which Marcella did her [illegible] sparkle for the benefit of oth[illegible]

But when the tenth dance came, [illegible] brought the one man who, to her, made all the others seem insignificant. Marcella wasn't loath to accompany him up to a moonlit corner [illegible] the boat deck and away from the music of the saxophone and ukelele, gaze over the shining waters to the rugged western coast of Ireland.

"So tomorrow all this ends." It was the man who broke the enchanted silence first.

"All good things must end," rejoined Marcella, conscious of the triteness of that observation, and considerably keyed up.

"Why?" He turned and looked at her in the clear moonlight. Her beauty was irradiated with a white transparency that made her small face just as exquisite as a gardenia. She was the loveliest girl he'd ever known—the most desirable. What a curse the lack of money was! But would she really mind that lack, supposing that she, by a glorious materialization of his dreams, could learn to love him?

Little did he guess the tumult that was going on in his companion's mind.

And, anxious to gain command of herself, Marcella's voice was rather cool as she replied:

"I have always found in life that it's a mistake to let anything grow stale thru repetition."

"Even a wonderful experience?"

"Can any experience continue to be wonderful on repetition?" she countered, conscious of the nearness of this fascinating man.

"I was just thinking"—he drew closer—"how wonderful the most ordinary repetitions of life could be—under certain conditions."

Afraid of the too pregnant silence, she leant over the side of the boat, and, gazing down at the gleaming phosphorescence on the water, remarked, with an attempt at lightness: "Lovely, isn't it? But just an illusion like so many other things."

He, too, looked down.

"The phosphorescence, do you mean?"

She nodded.

"But it's no illusion. That light's given off by millions of microscopic creatures in the water, on whom fishes feed. Fireflies playing around the hedge ashore are just the same."

"Will-o'-the-wisps?" inquired Marcella. "When I was a tiny tot I used to spend hours chasing them, trying in vain to capture them." She laughed.

"The little girl that used to be can sympathize with me, then," came the odd reply, voiced very low, and his listener's heart beat fast. What did he mean?

"Do you want the unattainable?" That was a risky question, but she couldn't keep it back.

As though he hadn't heard it, he went on:

"The firefly gives off light, but not a scrap of warmth, so even if one caught it the long chase would only end in disappointment. Isn't that so, Marcella?"

"Why do you ask me?" she said in a half whisper, with a pulse throbbing in her throat. "Why should I know?"

"Because the firefly has its parallel among the humans. For the last week the radiance of one has dazzled me so that everything else seems dull and commonplace, and even my work that used to seem so all-important, is in a sort of haze."

She turned her face up to him in the moonlight, and her beauty shone with the soft sheen of pearls.

"But tomorrow, when you go ashore, the firefly will have gone, and you will see everything in the right perspective—"

He caught her hands in his and looked deep into her eyes.

"Like the little girl you used to be, Marcella, I shall only want to follow that intoxicating light, even though it takes me months and years to capture it. Perhaps—who knows?—a miracle might happen, and I shall find fires kindled there."

"You think the—the person—half butterfly, half firefly—is—is worth it?" came her whisper, very low. An electric current flowed from his strong hands into hers, and her whole heart melted toward him with a rush that almost frightened her.

"Worth everything in the world, Marcella—darling! Don't you know that the sea and the moon and the stars were only made as a setting for—for love? Listen to the whispering of the waters. They're telling you what I'm afraid to tell you—that love is the only thing that really counts—the only thing that can endure, Marcella."

He caught her in his arms and held her close. The girl closed her eyes and in the intoxication of the moment it seemed as though their spirits winged across the seas to an Elysium for two where no one else could enter.

"Love is beauty and beauty is just love, although I never fully realized it up to now," went on the sculptor, to whom beauty was a god. "Sweetheart—Marcella, the loveliest name I've ever known"—his voice lingered on the syllables—"tell me there is some hope. I—I love you so!"

She raised her face to his, and, though she did not speak, the love-light shone in her dark eyes, and he could see it there.

"I'll do everything in the world to make you happy, sweetness, if you'll let me have the right. I never knew—I never dreamt—that I could feel like this. It's past belief—"

Another brisk installment tomorrow.

The WOMAN POWER of AMERICA

is well illustrated by the thousands of women who are entering every profession, almost every line of business and politics as well. They are bound to make good, and there is no question but what health is their greatest asset. Many women, however, develop weak, nervous conditions and cannot stand the strain of a professional or business life. Such women should remember when beset with headaches, backache, nervousness, irritability or any ailment peculiar to their sex that the greatest of all remedies for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For nearly fifty years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring the women of America to health and strength. It holds the remarkable record of helping 98 out of every 100 women who try it.—Advertisement.

WALT MASON

Modern Methods.

One evening, as I took a jaunt, along the village street, I met two strangers, tall and gaunt, who jerked me off my feet. They loaded me into a car and pushed the gasoline, and took me to a place afar that I had never seen. They stopped the car upon a knoll, and said, in accents stern, "We know how healthy is your roll, we know you've coin to burn. We've brought you to this beauty spot, its wonders for to see, and you must buy a house and lot before you may go free. This subdivision is the best that's found upon the map; its view, when you are facing west, would fairly daze a chap. 'Twill be a place of great renown upon some future day; it's only nineteen miles from town, with dirt roads all the way. We hope that you'll be safe and sane, and buy this noble hill; we have a cave where you'll remain until you say you will." And in a cavern, cold and bare, they landed me eftsoons; for seven days they kept me there and fed me musty prunes. At last, at last, I had to yield: "My checkbook I'll produce and buy this whole blamed pasture field, if you will turn me loose." This modern pep I like to see; it's brilliant as a star; but sometimes, it appears to me, the boys do go too far.

SKINNER'S THE SUPERIOR MACARONI PRODUCTS

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Henry Lee Bowlby of Crete had been appointed to be cadet at West Point by Congressman Stark.

Mrs. C. P. Russell and Dr. W. B. Swisher, her father, arrived in Lincoln from Metlatoyuca, Mex., to spend the summer.

Americans were seeking safety in flight from the Spaniards at Havana, and the Mascotte sailed away from the city with a full complement of passengers.

Manager Dowden and George Detlefs went to Omaha to hear Melba and Campanani.

The Seventeenth Street Stars defeated the Shamrocks in a game of ball at Seventeenth and X streets. Batteries for Stars, Brown and Donely; for Shamrocks, Ryans and Hannal.

A girls' indoor athletic contest was being arranged at the university, the same being considered a very novel plan.

Seward—The following officers were elected at the meeting of Order of the Eastern Star: W. M., Mrs. Roy Belden; W. P., Elmer Rouselle; Associate M., Hazel Beck; secretary, Mrs. Clyde Oaks; treasurer, Mable Laudis; conductress, Beryl Imig; assistant conductress, Mrs. Elmer Rouselle.

FOR THE PROPOSITION.

I heartily approve of the plan for a community chest and will be glad to assist in any way possible.
S. AVERY,
Chancellor University of Nebraska.

Pershing Unable to Attend.

OMAHA, Neb., April 6.—General John J. Pershing was not present at thte Douglas county post of the American Legion dinner in the Hotel Fontenelle ball room last night to commemorate the entrance of the United States into the world war.

Word from the general reached the post Thursday to the effect that an engagement made for him previously in Lincoln made his presence impossible. Hilford McNider of Mason City, Ia., former national commander of the legion, was scheduled to speak at the dinner, as was Earl Cline of Lincoln, past state commander.

To you we bring The food of Spring.

The Shriners are holding their ceremonial session on Friday afternoon and evening. The "first part" will take place at the Scottish Rite temple at 3 o'clock, followed by the parade at 4:30. Dinner will be served at the temple, while the sands are being heated at the auditorium for the second section. The visit of the ladies has been postponed until Wednesday night.

M. S. Davis, 521 South Twenty-ninth, and K. Nelsen, 3200 R, were arraigned before Police Judge Chappell Friday morning on charges of speeding. Mr. Davis pleaded guilty and was fined $12 and costs. Officer Gross reported that the defendant was going thirty-two miles an hour when arrested. Mr. Nelson was fined $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty to going faster than twenty-five per.

Mrs. Inez A. Eckles testified Friday morning in district court in support of her petition for divorce from Charles O. Eckles, who, she alleged, had been guilty of non support and cruelty. She claimed he had been neglectful, and did not treat her with respect. They were married in York in 1913, and separated in December, 1921. The judge indicated that a divorce would be granted, and took the case temporarily under advisement pending preparation of the decree.

M. Randlebeuh, twenty-nine years old, and Logan Cranston, thirty-two years old, appeared in police court Friday morning on charges of vagrancy. Randlebeuh was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail and the sentence suspended on condition that he leave the city before 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. He was warned by Judge Chappell that he would be made to serve the sentence if caught in the city after that time. Cranston was released on condition that he also leave. He departed for Friend where he claims to have employment.

A pocket size model of King Tut's coffin, a pair of put and take dice, a four inch tooth, original possessor unknown, a Canadian service medal, small coins of half a dozen different nations and a pair of embroidery scissors were only part of the articles checked with Desk Sergeant Towle by Loran Cranston Thursday night. Mr. Cranston who hails from Iowa and M. Rouddebuch, 436 South Ninth, were brought to the station by Officers Wait and Stearns and booked as vagrants. Mr. Cranston said he was thirty-two years old and had seen over-seas service. He said that he was looking for work and would welcome a job. Dr. William Slattery said that he would endeavor to see that Mr. Cranston was given a chance at a job.

Miss Helen M. Bennett of Chicago, manager of the Chicago Collegiate Bureau of Occupations who will be in Lincoln Monday and Tuesday of next week will be the guest of honor at a dinner Monday evening at the Grand hotel given for the business women of Lincoln. The Altrusa club, Business Womens league and the Axis club will be hostesses. In the tour which Miss Bennett is making she speaks to the business girls of the city and to the girls of the university who intend to enter business upon their graduation. Miss Bennett was reared in a western mining camp. After her graduation from Wellesley she was appointed mine examiner and since has been county superintendent of schools in South Dakota and editor of a womans page of a Chicago newspaper. For the past ten years she has been manager of the Chicago Bureau of Occupations. Miss Bennett has written several books and writes many magazine articles on subjects such as "What Every Employer Wants," "What Do You Want in Your Pay Envelope" and "A Perfect Employer."

The Lincoln council of the Sunday school association held its monthly meeting Thursday afternoon at the Grand hotel. There was a large representation of the various districts. Plans were discussed for the county Sunday school convention to be held in Lincoln at the Grace Methodist church May 14 and 15. Mrs. H. D. Lidolph of Roca was made chairman of the committee to advertise the county convention in the rural schools. The program committee reported progress on the convention program with a report in full to be given later.

The beautiful candle lighting service was held by the Y. W. C. A. of Nebraska Wesleyan Thursday evening in the council room. Miss Dorothy LaSelle and her cabinet presided during the first part of the ceremony. The new officers and cabinet members then took their places. These will serve during the coming scholastic year. They are:

tendent of public instruction secretary of public welfare.

Hastings started the speechmaking with an explanation of S. F. 2. He said S. F. 315 permits secretaries of code departments to appoint or discharge their own employes, tho these code departments are not to be considered new executive departments.

Robbins of Douglas had S. F. 2 amended so that appointive secretaries shall be confirmed by both the house and senate as provided by the new constitution.

Touches Touchy Subject.

Osborne of Morrill, democrat, asked about a touchy matter. He desired to ascertain if the bill which proposes to give the lieutenant governor increased salary and to increase his salary during his term of office is contrary to the constitution.

Saunders of Douglas did not believe the bill is contrary to the constitution in that it provides pay for additional services, not extra pay for services of the lieutenant governor.

Saunders said he knew of no reason why the code, founded on business principles, should be repealed. He favored retaining it and also favored an amendment which will permit the governor to choose secretaries or to use elected state officers. He said some candidates who urged repeal did not know what the code is. He pointed out that many candidates who stood for the code principle were returned while some who explained were defeated.

Cooper of Douglas was favorably inclined to S. F. 2 and said Cox of Ohio has favored such a system of state government. Ten states have similar systems, so it is no experiment.

Sturdevant of Holt spoke for the bill as it sustains a system similar to the cabinet form of government and takes politics out of state affairs.

Allen of Lincoln said extravagance of the past four years has made the code unpopular, but this was at a time when everybody was extravagant. This bill is what the people want for it brings the state government back to the people but retains the code principle.

Democratic Origin.

Reed reviewed a little history to show that Norton of Polk, a prominent democrat, had reported on a legislative commission in 1913 in favor of a revision of the state government which was then made up of an endless number of boards and commissions. Reed told of the investigating committee of which he was a member two years ago when it inquired into alleged duplications of the code system, and this committee found none, tho it reported that the bureau of markets should function better or be abolished. Since then there had been complaint that it functions too much. Reed said reporters who had written columns about duplication could point out none and when cornered admitted they wrote such stories because they were connected with publications and the people like to read such stuff.

"Would you mind if we took a recess until 2 o'clock; it is now past noon?" asked Thielen.

Reed said he would not. He will be given the floor at the afternoon session.

It is said both bills, S. F. 2 and S. F. 315 will be ordered advanced to third reading at the afternoon session. The senate will then adjourn until 2 o'clock Monday.

put in. He said this was not put in the specifications sent out by the architect, with the result that the contractor is protected on extras but the sate is not on deductions. He said the commission never had a chance to pass on the final specifications because of the haste necessary to get advertising for bids started, due to the favorable price situation.

Commissioner Thompson at one time objected to the method employed by Mr. Johnson in testifying, arguing and otherwise breaking the rules of legal etiquet, and Mr. Johnson retorted that he was getting even for the third degree given to him by the commission.

"I am a whole lot more interested in this than you are," shot back Mr. Thompson. "You are out. I am still in."

A Revengeful Will.

Evelyn dressed herself in deep mourning and attended the funeral of her aunt with genuine regret. Even tho the morning papers told her that "the dowager's will had been found and not a penny had been left to the former debutante, Evelyn Bowers, now Mrs. Stanley Willows, the wife of a bank teller," her heart held no revenge.

Death was too solemn a thing to this happy young bride to fret over money. Her aunt had been very kind and considerate to her during her childhood days and now, as she attended the funeral of this rather wilful woman who had been the social leader in the city for years, her mind was running over the many happy evenings they had spent together rather than the fact that her aunt had coolly left her out of her will.

"I'm so sorry," whispered Clarice Burton as the two girls met at the threshold of the dowager's late residence.

"It was so frightfully sudden," stammered Evelyn.

"But I mean about the will."

"Oh, that."

"Perhaps she made another one, perhaps she left you everything after all."

"I don't think so," replied Evelyn. "The lawyers usually hunt for the last will and this one was dated only three weeks back."

"But that was right at the time of your elopement. She might have resented it, thought it over and made another will later."

"My aunt would have been clever enough to have destroyed the first will in that case."

"Oh, I suppose so. Well, Evelyn, everybody who knew you is mighty sorry for you. Depend upon your old friends, dear."

"They needn't be sorry for me," replied Evelyn. "I would do the same thing right over again if it were a toss between a fortune and Stanley."

Reporters and photographers besieged Evelyn's apartment, all desiring to get her views on wills, marrying for love and husbands in moderate circumstances compared to society chaps. But Evelyn managed to evade them all. The only thing they could get was the picture of the apartment where the former heiress and her bank teller husband lived. A dark, heavily inked arrow pointed to the tiny four-room affair in the rear of the apartment.

"By George, it's too bad you didn't get a cent of that money," declared Willows when he returned from the bank that night.

"We might have had a heap of fun," confessed Evelyn.

"All left to foundling institutions and one home for incorrigible young girls."

"That's to spite me," pointed out Evelyn. "She probably considered me incorrigible."

"Only in one thing, dear," reminded the very persistent husband. "Only incorrigible when she comes to keeping budgets."

"Well, I guess I'll have to learn now, all right," agreed Evelyn. "I always imagined that Aunt Edna would meet you somewhere and take a great fancy to you. I had visions of her complimenting me on my good judgment in marrying a man outside of society circles and finally leaving everything to us. But my dreams have faded. We'll have to struggle along by ourselves now."

"We can do it."

"You venture we can, Stanley. Where's your budget note book? I want another lesson right now."

"We're booked for success and we've got each other," said Willows as he brought forth the formerly troublesome little account book, and with one arm around his wife's waist and the other arm pinning the book down flatly on the table proceeded to give Evelyn a new angle on the simplicity of adding columns and making them balance.

Tomorrow—Another Upset.

FOR REDUCTION OF RATES ON FREIGHT

Senate Overturns Recommendation of Committee on Railroads, Tho Doubtful of Ability to Cut Rates.

The senate overturned a report of the railroad committee on S. F. 260, a bill by Rickard and Meacham to reduce freight rates 15 per cent until such time as the railway commission orders an increase. The bill applies to car load lots.

A bill by the same senators to establish a 3 per cent passenger fare in this state was indefinitely postponed without discussion on recommendation of the committee on railroads.

Rickard protested against the committee report on the freight rate bill and said no evidence had been offered by railroads of their inability to reduce rates. On the contrary he said the Burlington had earned more than 7 per cent in 1921 and the Union Pacific road 11 per cent.

"We are doing little at this session," said Rickard, but if we pass this bill we will be doing something for farmers and the entire state.

Sturdevant of the railroad committee argued that it was useless to act on this subject because rates are in the hands of the federal board and railroads cannot lower rates unless they can reduce expenses and they cannot lower wages without a strike and perhaps a war.

Good favored the bill. He said it was not fair for the legislature to give preachers and others free passes without giving something to the farmer.

Rickard said the legislature has the same right to regulate rates that it had in 1907.

Cooper said the people are losing control of railroads and the sooner they awake to that fact the better.

Hastings opposed the bill because intrastate rates must give way to interstate rates and the supreme authority is at Washington.

Sturdevant cited Trenmore Cone's letter in the Journal to show that the railway commission had saved $12,000,000 in eighteen months, and the matter of doing it was set forth in the letter.

Rickard said if the bill passes it will be up to the railroads to show the rate to be unreasonable, and they will have trouble to do this. The railway commission takes this position.

Chambers was for any bill that can be enforced, but he did not believe this bill can be enforced.

The vote on the motion to place the bill on the general file resulted:

Aye—Allen, Anderson, Behrens, Fries, Good, Illian, Meacham, Osborne, Reed, Reitenrath, Rickard, Shellenberger, Sturdevant, Thielen, Tomek, Warner—16.

Nay—Banning, Barr, Bliss, Chambers, Cooper, Gumb, Hastings, Johnson, McGowan, Robbins, Smrha, Wilkins—12.

Absent—Kroh, Larkin, Saunders, Wiltse, Purcell—5.

CITY ELECTION DID NOT INTEREST MANY

Nearly 22,000 Voters Were Registered, Yet Less Than One-Fourth of That Number Took Trouble to Go to the Polls.

One of the election puzzles is the apparent indifference of voters to the city election. Nearly 22,000 voters registered yet less than one-fourth, or 4,995 votes were cast Tuesday. It is recalled that at least once nearly the total registration was brought out. It was during the wet and dry fight of 1911. The registration then was a little over 10,000. Women could not vote then. Few voters failed to go to the polls.

Some voters lost interest when conveyances no longer called for them and carried them to the polls. The law stopped that sort of vote solicitation and appeal.

Once candidates and their friends had plenty of leeway to hustle for votes. Before the primary there was always some kind of a local issue or fight on hand. Often the excitment was over the personal fortunes of some one candidate.

In the earlier days newspaper men were on the watch for election fights and they were rarely disappointed. The presence of the saloons was frequently a cause of burning issues. The Australian ballot system is credited with having accomplished much to check rowdyism. Old timers recall that the public service corporations helped to make things lively at election time by taking an active interest in candidates and issues.

No one thinks of a fight nowadays at any of the forty-eight precincts of the city. Once the polling places were in charge of the men. Of recent years the women in increasing numbers have replaced the men. This, it is claimed, has resulted in producing more orderly conditions at the voting places.

Students of city affairs are at a loss to understand the indifferent attitude of many voters. Those who fail year after year to exercise their franchise are interested in getting efficient, honest and competent men on the city commission. They register but do not always vote.

The indifference was illustrated at the recent primary. It was necessary to move the polling place in one ward five block away from the old polling place. When some voters found that they would have to walk less than half a mile to cast their ballots they rebelled, and declared that they would not bother to vote.

GOVERNOR TO EXERT HIS RIGHT TO VETO

He Expresses No Grief Over Report That Senate Proposes to Kill the Dysart-Mathers Code Bills.

"The contemplated action of the senate committee which will smother the Dysart-Mathers code bills is not surprising to me," said Governor Bryan Friday. The principal in them is so bad from a business and governmental point of view, I could not see how the senate could approve them and place them before the people as the work of the republican party. The bills reenact the code and brings the departments under the new constitution and makes them new executive officers. Under the Dysart bill there would be five governors and under the Mathers bill there would be six, with equal power in conflict with the constitution. The bills might have the political permit of getting hold of all patronage heretofore vested in the government, but at the sacrifice of the business of the taxpayers."

Governor Bryan had heard that Speaker Mathers had ruled that items in appropriation bill that are in the governor's budget must be voted upon separately and receive a three-fifths vote to pass. The governor is also informed the attorney general holds a vote as to the whole bill governs and if the bill receives fifty-one votes the anti-budget items are carried with the bill.

The governor said log rolling and an attempt to deprive him of his constitutional powers is apparent. He proposes to exercise his constitutional power and veto any item in an appropriation bill.

The budget law appears to make it plain that if an appropriation not in the budget receives a three-fifths vote the governor cannot veto it, yet an older provision of the constitution empowers the governor to veto any item in an appropriation bill.

ROME MILLER MAKES REPLY

CHALLENGES EVERY PROCEEDING IN HOTEL COMPANY CASE.

Declares Federal Court Without Jurisdiction, Bankruptcy Proceedings Not in Good Faith.

An attack upon practicall yevery step in the litigation involving the Nebraska Hotel company, from the time it was declared insolvent more than two years ago, is embodied in the reply of Rome Miller to the summary order of the referee in bankruptcy, to show why he should not surrender the assets o fthe company that he has acquired. These include some realty, a mortgage on the Lincoln Hotel at Scottsbluff, and the stock of the Interstate Hotel company, which owns the lease and fixtures of the Fontenelle at Omaha.

Mr. Miller declares that the first declaration of insolvency was fraudulent and not according to law, saying it was brought by directors, in a secret meeting not called according to law, and that furthermore the federal court, by delaying a year and a half in adjudicating the bankruptcy petition, forfeited its right to do so. He further says that all the matters at issue are involved in a proceeding now pending in the district court of Douglas county, the case of the Douglas Hotel company vs. Eugene Eppley, and that this proceeding was opened before the trustee's petition for an order was filed, March 22, and constituted a bar to the referee's order.

Mr. Miller is ready to pay the balance of the $215,000 he offered for the Fontenelle lease and fixtures, he says, and he contends that the sale was bona fide and should not be interrupted, and that the bankruptcy proceedings are jeopardizing his lease and threatening him with loss.

the working machinery of the commission will serve only to congest business and render it impossible to give citizens the prompt consideration their matters deserve.

Nebraska has for years been one of the most active states in matters of railroad regulation and has secured results second to none. There is food for thought in the fact that in the sister states in this great agricultural territory increasing financial support is being given to the state commissions and in none other than Nebraska has the theory been advanced of increasing efficiency by reducing appropriations and destroying operating machinery as is proposed in the governor's budget.

OF course you have noticed that the people in this world who get what they go after usually go to the Bank first. And you've also noticed that the people for whom Dame Fortune has a "come hither" expression in her eye are those who go to Bank regularly. Which prompts the remark that even if our savings window is sometimes crowded it's an inspiration to be one of a crowd of "go getters."

NEWS FROM NEBRASKA

WARD NEWCOMB TO SUCCEED GRUENTHER

Kearney Man, Now Chief Reviewing Appraiser for Federal Farm Loan Board, Is Omaha Bank Secretary.

OMAHA, April 6.—Ward K. Newcomb, Kearney, chief reviewing appraiser for the Federal Farm Loan board with headquarters at Washington has been appointed secretary of the Omaha Federal Land bank, president D. P. Hogan announced today. Newcomb succeeds the late Chris M. Gruenther, who died here recently.

HELEN MATTERS INVOLVED?

Real Estate Man Testifies Daughter of Thomas Matters Traded Him Guaranty Bonds.

OMAHA, April 6.—Bonds of the Colonial Timber and Coal corporation, sale of which has resulted in bringing Willard V. Mathews, Thomas Matters and fourteen others to trial for alleged mail frauds, were investigated and reported as good investments, amply secured, by Leslie E. Hubbard, former attorney general of Colorado, Hubbard testified today.

He said he reported them to the Mountain States Life Insurance company as such prior to that company's purchase of $39,000 of the bonds.

"After my investigation, I wrote an opinion that the bonds were correctly and legally issued and the title good," he said. "I did not have time to go to West Virginia, however."

OMAHA, April 6.—Miss Helen Matters carried on her father's business while the latter, Thomas H. Matters, was serving a sentence in Leavenworth prison, according to testimony in the Colonial Timber and Coal mail fraud case here Thursday.

R C Griffith, real estate man, testified that in 1921 he traded Miss Matters a 6,000 acre Loup county, Nebraska ranch for $50,000 worth of Guaranty Securities company bonds.

Matters, one of the sixteen defendants in the present trial, pounded a table with his fists and protested against his daughter's name being brought into the case.

William Lempke, farmer, Walton, Neb., one of the directors of the Farmers State bank of College View lost $21,000 thru investments made in Guaranty Securities bonds and Pioneer State bank stock, he testified.

REARREST MRS. VINCIQUERO

"Beautiful Bootleg Queen" Charged With Illegal Possession and Sale of Liquor.

OMAHA, April 6.—Louise Vinciquero, beautiful "bootlegger queen," who boasted to having made profits of $45,000 from illegal sale of liquor before her "retirement" a few days ago, was re-arrested at her home last night by federal prohibition agents on a warrant charging illegal possession and sale of liquor.

"This is what publicity did for me," Louise said smilingly.

The warrant on which Louise was arrested was based on evidence secured by Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers, Children's Protective association, who sent a student to the home to buy a pint of liquor.

Mrs. Vinciquero was released on $2,000 bonds.

Efforts to deport Louise and her husband as undesirable aliens probably will be made, Assistant U. S. Attorney Keyser announced today. Keyser is investigating the case. It is understood Vinciquero applied for first papers several months ago.

STOLE HIS WEDDING SUIT

Paid Wed at Falls City Solve Problem by Wearing Denim and Gingham.

FALLS CITY, Neb., April 6.—Clothes do not make the bridegroom, reflected Dave B. Colwell, twenty-eight, of Burlington Junction, Mo., when he found that his wedding suit had been stolen by friends upon his arrival in St. Joseph, Mo., where he and Mary Ann Shepherd, thirty-two of Bradyville, Ia., were to have been married.

The bridegroom purchased a pair of overalls and denim blouse and hurried with his bride to Falls City, where they weer married by County Judge Falloon. The bride, not wishing to shame her husband's appearance by contrast, doffed her formal trousseau and was married in a gingham house dress.

SEWARD Y ENLARGES MEET

Fifty High School Track Teams Invited to Compete.

SEWARD, Neb., April 6.—Seward Y. M. C. A.'s track meet is growing steadily larger. It was started as a county meet. The response was so enthusiastic that it was decided to hold an invitation affair. Fifty high schools have been invited to compete here, April 27. Schools in York, Butler, Fillmore, Saline and Seward counties have been asked. Columbus, Stromsburg, Osceola, Wahoo, Valparaiso and the Lutheran academy at Wahoo have also been invited. Lloyd McMasters, coach of the Nebraska cross country team, will be the official starter.

BRIEF STATE NEWS.

Kingsley; secretary, Gertrude Allen; treasurer, Clara Hentzen; members of the board of directors, Mrs. M. C. Miller and Mrs. A. E. Curley.

CHILD STRUCK BY TRUCK

Anna Sanink, Five Years Old, Dies Six Hours After Accident in Omaha.

OMAHA, April 6.—Her skull fractured when a car, drived by C. O. Johnson, struck her last night, Anna Sanink aged, five, died six hours later in a hospital. The child was playing in the street when struck. Johnson is held for investigation.

PLAN ROAD BETTERMENT.

FREMONT, Neb., April 6.—Several improvements thruout the county were discussed by the county board of supervisors at the meeting at the court house late yesterday afternoon. Of especial interest to users of the roads in the vicinity of Hooper was a motion to investigate the removing of the sharp turn at the foot of the "brickyard hill," for many years a source of trouble to motorists.

Twelve hundred dollars of the state fund was ordered to be used for gravelling south of Scribner, subject to the approval of State Engineer Black.

A readjustment in the taxes of the Farmer's State bank at Scribner was granted.

ASK BRIDGE APPROACH.

FREMONT, Neb., April 6.—The county board of supervisors Thursday afternoon passed a resolution to request the state of Nebraska to build an approach to the bridge at Yankton, preparatory to building a road from Yankton, S. D., to the Lincoln highway, connecting on this at North Bend, Neb.

The Dodge county board is following in the footsteps of three others, Dixon, Cedar and Knox. Cuming will be asked to fall in line next week, five petitions being needed to request that the work be done.

Charles Day Leaves Omaha.

OMAHA, Neb., April 6.—Charles E. Day, contractor, whose fifteen-year-old bride is sought by juvenile authorities as an alleged delinquent, has left Omaha permanently, according to his tenants. They said he notified them to pay their rent heerafter to his daughter, Mrs. M. C. Butler, 420 North Eighteenth street.

"There were too many people looking for him, he said," according to Mrs. Butler. She would not reveal where he went.

ALLEGES HE WAS VAMPED

Mrs. Henry Warneke Says Husband Infatuated With Another After 40 Years of Married Life.

OMAHA, Neb., April 6.—Henry Warneke, sixty-six, 2230 Jones street, has become infatuated with another woman after over forty years of wedded life, according to allegations of his wife, Mrs. Hannah M. Warneke, 568 South Twenty-sixth street, who started suit for divorce.

Warneke is a retired rancher of Sioux county.

"Once my daughter and I went to this other woman's house and took my husband out," said Mrs. Warneke. "I have walked by her house and saw him through the window, making love to her. I have also seen her welcome him at the door with an embrace."

Mrs. Warneke said the "other woman" lived but two blocks from their home.

They were married July 12, 1882, the wife alleges. Six months ago, Mrs. Warneke said, her husband agreed to give her four-ninths of his income and half of his property, but he failed to do so.

Has No Large Intestine.

FREMONT, Neb., April 6.—Johnny Green, twelve, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Green, 727 Pebble street, was born without an appendix and a large intestine, according to physicians who operated upon him recently.

The operation was attempted to give Johnny relief recurring attacks of "appendicitis." Two brothers and one sister of the boy had undergone operations for appendicitic, and the operations had proved successful.

The Omaha surgeon and Fremont doctors who performed the operation were astonished when they could not find the appendix. There were tissue formations where it should have been, but nothing else—not a sign of an appendix.

Humboldt a Shipping Point.

HUMBOLDT, Neb., April 6.—Humboldt is developing into a shipping point as per authoritative report made to the chamber of commerce at its last meeting. The figures in brief are:

Received by feeders and dealers in 1922, 894 cars of live stock, 517 cars of heavy miscellaneous shipments (lumber, coal, brick, sand, etc); total, 811 cars.

Forwarded, 618 cars of live stock, 118 cars of grain, 78 cars of miscellaneous shipments; total, 814 cars.

In less than carload lots there were received nearly 2,800,000 pounds of merchandise, all exclusive of the truck shipments.

Large Docket in Jefferson.

FAIRBURY, Neb., April 6.—In the term of the district court just closed there were nineteen criminal cases tried, with seventeen convictions and two acquittals. This is the greatest number of state cases ever docketed for a session in Jefferson county.

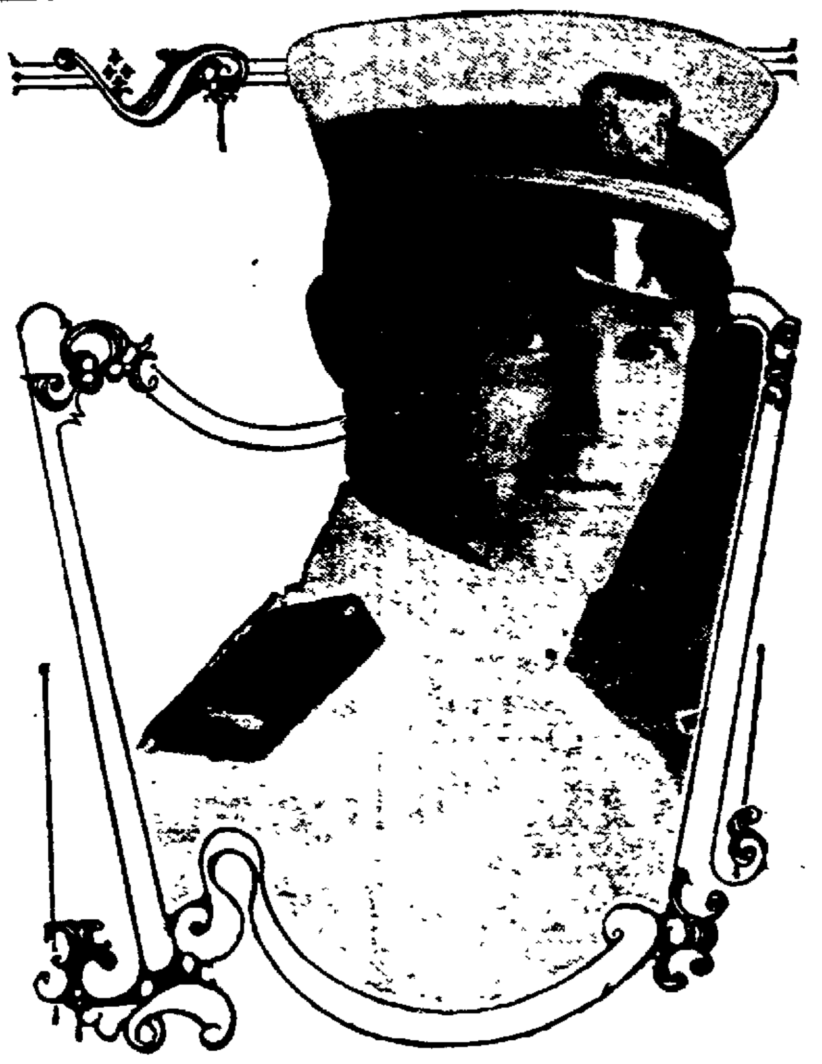

Arthur Denney, the newly elected young county attorney, handled the grind without help, dispatching the business in short order.

HEADS FREMONT FIREMEN.

FREMONT, April 6.—Frank Heckies, local insurance man was elected Thursday evening by the Fremont firemen to serve as their president for the coming year.

J. M. Sorenson was elected vice president and Harry Morse was reelected fire chief.

MORE THRILLING than a Jules Verne romance were the adventures of Warrant Officer H. B. Smith on the famous Sub Chaser "Seneca," which left him almost a physical wreck. He gives Tanlac full credit for complete restoration.

HUGH B. SMITH

The many deeds of daring and heroism—thrilling rescues and hair-raising U-boat attacks—in which the U. S. submarine chaser, Seneca, participated from the Mediterranean to the North sea, furnishes one of the most interesting chapters of the entire World War.

The price that Hugh B. Smith, warrant officer on the Seneca, paid for his gallant part in these hazardous encounters, was a nervous system so shattered that he broke down completely.

"What I saw and went through," said Mr Smith, "would leave its mark on any man. For two full years my nerves were at high tension all the time.

"When I got back to God's country, the reaction set in and I broke down completely. I was terribly nervous and irritable had no appetite, and could not sleep except when exhausted. I was also about fifteen pounds under weight, all of which made me realize something must be done.

"I resigned from the Navy but soon found our new environment and duties made no improvement in my physical condition.

"Finally a friend persuaded me to try Tanlac and after taking six or eight bottles of Tanlac I had gained fifteen pounds, was back to my normal weight, and felt completely recovered. Tanlac was a life-saver to me, and I heartily endorse it."

Mr Smith is branch manager for the Singer Sewing Machine Co., at 941 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., and resides at 435 Westervelt Ave., Staten Island.

Tanlac is for sale by all good Druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold. Accept no substitute.—Advertisement.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, April 6.—Grain prices were steady to unchanged on a dull market at the opening of the Chicago board of trade today.

Considerable selling pressure developed in wheat, with deferred months showing slight advances. Reports from the southwest showed the crop badly in need of moisture, with cold weather forecast for tonight. Shipments this week were estimated at 4,311,000 bushels against 3,138,000 last week, while port stocks showed an increase aggregating 1,250,000 bushels. Receipts, 25 cars.

Realizing by yesterday's buyers developed in corn shortly after the opening on the strength of a lower Argentine market. Reports from that country declared new corn was arriving at the seaboard in increasing quantities, with some exports made.

Oats remained unchanged. The market was dull.

Lack of demand caused declines in provisions.

The market gained during the morning. Reports concerning the winter wheat crop continued unfavorable. The Nebraska department of agriculture declared the condition of the winter wheat crop was uncertain and that many reports indicate damage by the recent low temperatures. About 40 per cent of the crop planted last autumn failed to germinate, the report added.

Corn showed some individual strength, the deferred months reaching new high prices on the crop. Receipts continued light with country offerings negligible. Indications of some export demand were received.

Some local buying caused oats to strengthen. The condition of the newly seeded area in the southwest was poor, with farmers reported planning to replow.

Chicago Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Those friendly to the constructive side of all markets claim a better class of buying was on yesterday and that with little encouragement values should work irregularly higher.

Some of the big shorts came in on their wheat and corn and seaboard houses took May wheat freely and gave July more attention.

Removal of hedges against export sales of close to 4,000,000 bushels of wheat in all positions the last two days has taken the slack out of the market and made values more responsive to buying of shorts and new investors.

The absorption of May corn at 75c by shorts and commission houses combined with large buying of July by one of the largest houses placed them in the high ground for this upturn.

The greater part of the strength in oats came from sympathy with other grains.—Lamson.

Grain Market Opinions.

E. Lowitz & Co.: While looking for lower prices eventually, trading markets are likely at present.

Stein-Alstryn: Higher prices are probable in all grains.

Hulburd, Warren & Chandler: We favor accumulating corn on dips.

Harris, Winthrop & Co.: News remains bullish.

Clement Curtis & Co.: We favor purchases on deferred months.

Lamson Bros. & Co.: The situation looks strong.

Thomson-McKinnon: With a better export business and the present crop uncertainty, we look for higher prices in wheat. Corn needs a strong improvement in the shipping demand for Chicago accumulations before the situation becomes healthy.

Logan & Bryan: General conditions favor an upward trend.

Simpson: The expansion in the export business the past two days started the market late yesterday. The market looks higher to me for both wheat and corn, and on the moderate declines I think should be bought.—Lamson.

Omaha Livestock Market.

OMAHA, April 6.—Cattle—Receipts, 2,500 head. The cattle market was slower today and the rather liberal Friday run of steers sold at prices that were unevenly steady to 10@15c lower. Top on several loads was $9.50 and a few head reached $9.60. She stock was also slow, but held mostly steady. Stockers and feeders were nominally unchanged in the advance of supplies.

For the week the trend of values has been generally higher, most classes showing an advance of around 25c. Receipts so far this week were fairly liberal, totaling 33,376 head, compared with 35,141 the same days last week, and 20,414 this week a year ago.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,700. Receipts were fairly liberal today. With a lower course at other principal markets trading was slow at mostly 5@10c lower prices. Good quality light hogs and butchers sold largely at $7.80@8.20, with a top price of $7.95. Packing sows sold mostly at $7 and stags at $6. Receipts so far this week were 84,309 head compared with 98,657 last week and 37,342 a year ago.

Sheep—Receipts, 5,000. Fat lambs were slow today at prices ruling mostly 10@15c lower, with spots 25c lower. Good quality lambs sold largely within a range of $13.75@14.15, the latter being top price. Clipped lambs of desirable weights moved at $10.75@11.00. Feeders and shearing lambs were nominal. Sheep were steady or weak, best light ewes being quoted at $8.75. Receipts for the first five days of this week were 46,067, against 60,162 last week and 29,165 last year.

Sheep—Receipts, 3,500; market, 15@25c higher.

Broad and Wall Street Gossip.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The fact that the local federal reserve bank failed to announce any change in its rediscount rate helped dissipate the idea that rates would be advanced to prevent undue speculation in business and commodities. Any advance in the rate would not be aimed against the securities market inasmuch as brokerage loans are considerably under the peak.—Lamson.

St. Paul Livestock Market.

ST. PAUL, April 6.—Cattle—Receipts, 1,100; market, fairly active, steady to strong.

Stock Market Gossip.

Housman & Co.: Underlying tone is more confident.

Post & Flagg: The market shows signs of recuperation.

Clark Childs & Co.: Better prices seem in line for rails.

Harris, Winthrop & Co.: We look for a slightly lower level.

Logan & Bryan: It may be well to accept some profits on the long holding on strong spots.

Thomson-McKinnon: It is possible for the market to resume activity with advancing prices.—Lamson.

Coming Events in Stocks.

NEW YORK, April 6.—General Motors: Well informed buying is reported in G. M. O. The bright outlook for motors in general and the fact that the present General Motors management have practically completed their weeding-out and consolidation process are influencing conservative sources to say that G. M. O. selling to yield about 8 per cent with current earnings running at more than twice dividend requirements has attracted long-pull investors.—Lamson.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Opening prices on the New York stock exchange today included: United States Rubber 60¼, up ⅛; Crucible 80¾, up ¾; U. S. Steel 107¼; Baldwin 139⅝, up ⅜; General Motors 15, up ⅛; Pan-American 74⅝, up ¾; Studebaker 124, up ½; Sinclair 38⅞, up ⅜; California Petroleum 89⅝, up ⅜; American Locomotive 135¼, up ½.

Prices in the main body of stocks held around the best levels reached on the current recovery in the noon dealings and fresh forward movements took place in industrial stocks. U. S. Railway advanced and Savage Arms gained a point to 29½, reflecting the arrangements made to care for the company's current financial needs without a bond issue.

From Lucile's Diary.

I wonder why it is when mother, Cousin Fannie and granny are all such deft seamstresses father so frequently asks me to do his mending. I have never taken to the needle much, and I feel that it is really foolish for me to roughen my fingers when there are others in the family who can sew more cleverly than I.

"Lucile," he said to me a few days ago, "aren't you ever going to sew the strap on my bathrobe? I've asked you over and over again. I guess it's nothing in your young life whether my bathrobe hangs up or reposes on the closet floor."

"Oh, daddy dearest," I replied, "I thought it had been sewed on long ago."

"Well, you thought wrong," he remarked.

I took no notice of his grumpiness, because I have been teasing him for a month to give me a birthday dinner at his club, and I naturally did not wish to say anything to irritate him, as he had at last consented to have my longed-for party.

After much discussion I induced him to give me $20 for flowers and favors. This was a ridiculously small sum, but, unfortunately for me, mother has never trained father to spend money generously for what he calls folderols.

Happily it occurred to me that perhaps Geneva Chamberlain would make me a birthday present of water-color place cards.

"Why, yes," she replied when I broached the subject to her. "I think I could do it, altho I have a good many orders just now. How many cards do you require, Lucile?"

"Only eighteen, dear."

"Eighteen!"

"Yes. You needn't letter the names on them. I can write them nicely, but I shall simply adore having your darling little water-color drawings. You are a perfect dear." I said appreciatively, but she did not seem so dear the morning of the party when I telephoned her to know if the cards were ready.

"Oh, is the dinner today? I hadn't received any—any word."

"How awkward of me, Geneva darling," I said, "not to have given you the date. I should have told you, too, that I am having just the family and a few very intimate friends. I simply longed to invite you, but you see how it is. I couldn't very well ask you and not—"

"Pray don't explain further, Lucile. It was stupid to think you would include me. I'll send the cards by a messenger as soon as they're finished, which will be in plenty of time."

She broke the connection before I could say more. I do hope she won't discover that Charles Jerome was one of my guests, for since she reluctantly introduced him to me she has appeared absurdly jealous every time I saw anything of him. I dare say Geneva feels that she gave me a very handsome present, but I believe that it was a splendid advertisemnt for her. I told them that the cards were made especially for me by a brilliant young artist, whose name I would gladly give if anyone desired to order any such work.

The dinner was going beautifully at the club in a private room when to my delight and excitement a page brought a huge box addressed to me. It looked as if it contained at least three dozen long stemmed American beauty roses.

"Good gracious, what's this?" I cried as I undid the inner wrappings of white tissue paper. "Why, it's—it's—"

"Yes, my child, it's my bathrobe," said father, genially. "If you'll probe further you'll discover a polite note urging you graciously to celebrate your birthday by sewing on the strap so that we can take it home and hang it, I say, in its place in the closet."

Everybody but me roared with laughter, so I could only make the best of what I considered a remarkably poor joke. Father was extremely well pleased with himself and was quite the life of the party, but I think it was not only unkind of him to thrust that bathrobe into my beautiful party but absolutely bourgeois.

It was particularly mortifying to have Charles Jerome witness the ill-timed jest. He is so charming and so cultivated that I had wished especially to give him a good impression of my family.—Chicago News.

Real Human Kindness.

A sailor, ill and marooned by the heartless captain of a pirate ship in the 1690's, gave the following account of his rescue:

"When I came back to my senses I was lying in the old hut of a fisherman, and the big black fellow was fanning my head with a bundle of broad leaves. He must have carried me in from the beach: an easy job, for I was all skin and bones, and he was a giant.

"When he saw me open my eyes he bade me fear nothing, that I was in his house and the people of the place would do me no hurt. He said that I might call him Jim.

"Jim nursed me like I was a baby; he gave me food and drink; he tried to keep me cool at noon and warm at night, and all without pay, for not one penny piece of my few remaining coins would he take. His was a heart of good-will. And in between whiles he told me the strange story of his life.

"'Why,' said I, 'are you so kind to me?'

"To this he replied that he had a kindness for plain sailormen; that they suffered much on their ships at the hands of hard masters, and many had, out of their little, often supplied his wants.

"For eight weeks black Jim thus cared for me—a poor, forlorn, marooned seaman, and a sailor's blessing rests upon him. I owe him my life."—Adventure Magazine.

How Raleigh Met His Death.

Never a man who loved his life as dearly as Sir Walter loved it met death as blithely. He dressed himself for the scaffold with that elegance and richness which all his life he had observed. He wore a rough band and black velvet-wrought nightgown over a doublet of hair-colored satin, a black wrought waistcoat, black cut taffeta breeches and ash-colored silk stockings. Under his plumed hat he covered his white locks with a wrought nightcap. This last he bestowed on his way to the scaffold upon a bald-headed old man who had come to take a last look of him, with the observation that he was more in need of it than himself. When he had removed it, it was observed that his hair was not curled as usual. This was a matter that had fretted his barber Peter in the prison of the gatehouse at Westminster that morning. But Sir Walter had put him off with a laugh and a jest.

"Let them comb it that shall have it," he had said of his own head.

Having taken his leave of the friends who had flocked about him with the observation that he had a long journey before him, he called for the ax, and, when presented to him, ran his fingers along the edge, and smiled:

"Sharp medicine," quoth he, "but a sound cure for all diseases."

When presently the executioner bade him turn his head to the east—

"It is no great matter which way a man's head stands, so that his heart lies right," he said.—Adventure Magazine.

The Educator's Main Business.

Education is a very human thing, depending upon the shock of mind upon mind, of character upon character. Expensive buildings, elaborate equipment, brilliantly organized administration, all these have their value, but the value is secondary. The main business of the educational statesman is to provide the schools and colleges with an adequate staff of good teachers. If the teachers are efficient, the education will be good; if they are stupid and low-minded, the most elaborate apparatus in the world will not prevent the educational system of the country from being a hollow sham. It is impossible ever to ensure that the teaching in the public schools of a country will be good, but it is very easy to ensure that it will be indifferent. If the teachers are paid a sweated wage, if their minds are constantly harassed by illiberal cares, then the teaching will only be good by accident and in spite of the system.—Yale Review.

Pepys' Bank Runs.

The bank in which Samuel Pepys kept an account—which was overdrawn when he died—recently celebrated its 250th anniversary. It is one of the three oldest banks in London, and goes by the name of Messrs. Hoare & Co. Since the beginning it has been ruled by the Hoare family, eldest son succeeding eldest son as head of the firm.

Time has not changed many of the customs begun by the founders. To this day a member of the house of Hoare sleeps every night in one of the quiet bedrooms overlooking a peaceful garden in the rear of the banking house, which is in Fleet street. Every morning at 9 o'clock he unlocks the big front door with a huge key. This tradition began in the 17th century. In those days coaches could not be depended upon to get one down to business on time, so one of the partners was assigned to sleep at the bank.—Denver News.

Slave Traffic in Minnesota.

Negroes were bought and sold on several occasions in early Minnesota, according to an article in the Minnesota History bulletin. Some of the officers stationed at old Fort Snelling, including Majors John Bliss and John Garland, were slaveholders. Major Lawrence Taliaferro, Indian agent at Mendota, owned a number of slaves, several of which he leased at different times to officers of the fort. Eventually he freed his slaves, valued at between $25,000 and $30,000.

In 1836 Dred Scott was brought by Dr. John Emerson to Fort Snelling, where Scott and a slave girl, Harriet Robinson, were married. Not until the United States supreme court had pronounced judgment and a great sectional debate had been settled, did the echoes of the famous case which followed Scott's visit to Minnesota die down.—Detroit News.

Anticipated.

"Train from the west much late?" asked a guest.

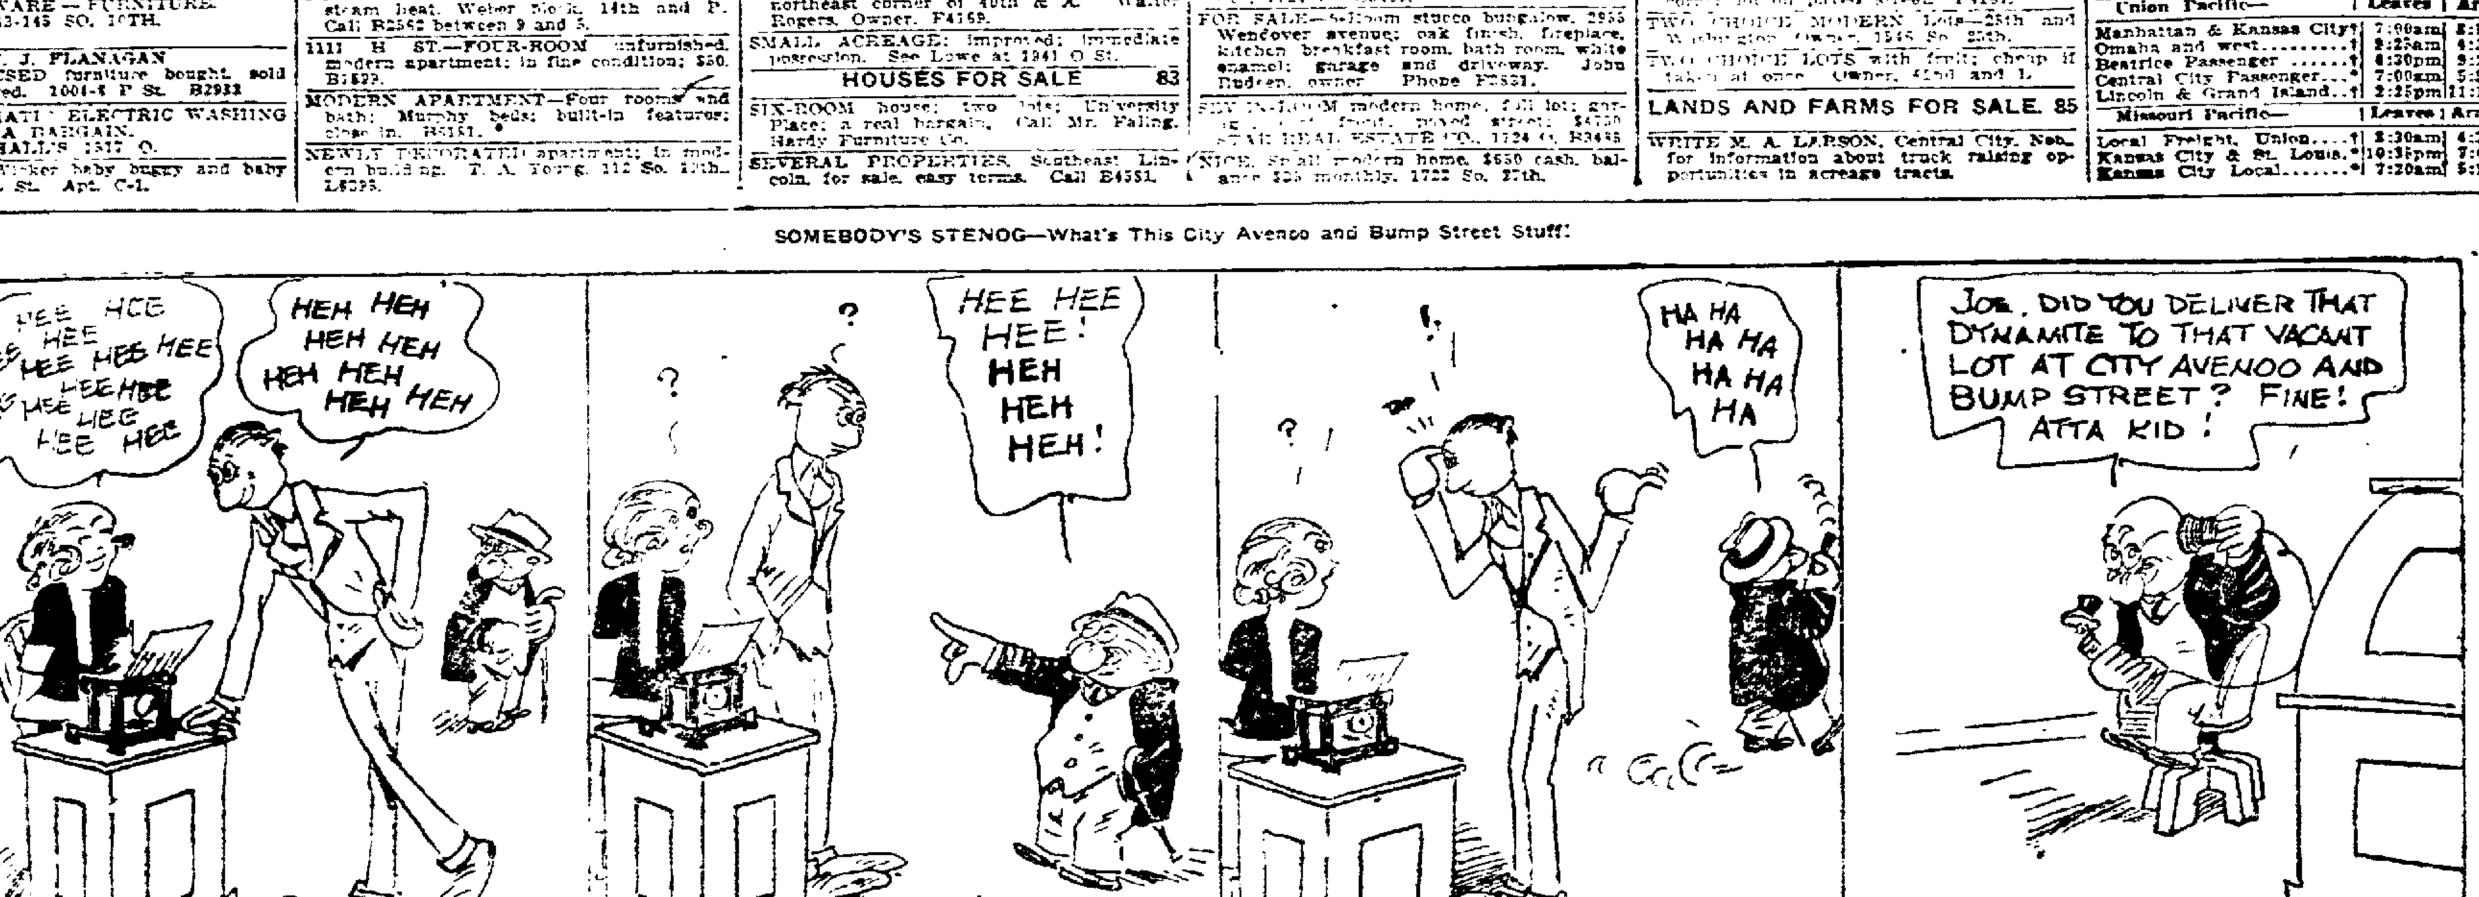

"Nope!" replied the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "We're expecting it every hour now."—Kansas City Star.

MEN AND THINGS

It would be strong for Walter W. Head for high official, if I were not afraid that it would spoil him in one respect. Before the investigating committee the other day he said that as a member of the capitol commission he was prepared to assume every bit of responsibility attaching to what had been done, and that because there had been mistakes made in the construction of the capitol he did not propose to ride the architect. Passing the buck has become so pronounced a feature of political life that it would be really grand to have a man holding elective office who shouldered all responsibility. Mr. Head went still further. He offered to draw his check for any loss the investigators concluded had resulted to the state from too much haste in ordering printing for which a whacking big price was paid. Imagine a public official who would repay us for all his mistakes!

The house was perfectly justified in raising the appropriation for the state railway commission. It is poor economy to appropriate just enough money as the statutes require to pay salaries and not enough to enable the commission to do anything to earn those salaries. For some reason the governor insists upon clinging to the mistaken belief that the commission has been shorn by congress of its principal powers, and he won't look at the law or the commission's books to find out if he is mistaken or not. All the time he is denying the commission has had certain powers restored to it the commission is going ahead exercising those powers and the railroads are obeying them.

It is quite true that the commission raised utility rates during the war period and after, but in each instance it was practically forced to do this by the law and court decisions. If it had denied relief to telephone companies for instance, they could have gone into court and compelled even higher rates, the commission having made the increases as small as its members thought they could make them and yet not be called into court. The law with respect to utility rates is not open to dispute. Public service corporations, being denied the right to earn above a certain return during generally prosperous times, cannot be compelled to furnish service for any less return during the other kind of times, is a settled rule of law.

We rise to inquire: Why it is that no restaurant keeper has yet been able to invent a plate dinner service without having to insert mashed potatoes as one of the ingredients? * * * If we have been mistaken in regard to our idea of capital punishment being the death penalty in view of the number of investigations Mr. Goodhue has been compelled to face? * * * If it is really necessary for a man to submit his name in a big field of city councilmanic candidates in order to find out that he is not nearly so well known as he thought he was?

Many large business organizations now get out house organs which are little magazines printed largely for circulation among the employes. We notice that nearly every issue has some article or adjuration to the workers to be polite, courteous and kind to all patrons. There is a job worth while, teaching people to be polite, because if they learn to treat others in a proper manner they are absorbing one of the most helpful lessons youth can secure. Combine this with industry and there isn't any rock in the path of successful business life that cannot be surmounted.

Have you ever chanced to read any of Schopenhauer's diatribes about the once weaker sex? When one remembers that he quarreled with his mother and remained estranged for a quarter of a century, that he was a bachelor and never good-tempered, it is really delicious to read his arraignments. He never halted the onward sweep of women to recognition as factors in human progress by saying such things as that "the most distinguished intellects among the whole sex have never managed to produce a single achievement in the fine arts that is really great, genuine and original or given the world any work of permanent value in any sphere." He thinks that to show them great reverence is for men to make themselves extremely ridiculous and lowers them in the eyes of the women anyway.

The Compliment.

Minor poets are apt to be vain and jealous and nasty. Two at a dinner were overheard as follows:

"I saw your verses in the 'Grand Magazine,'" said the first.

"Did you?" said the other, with assumed indifference.

"Yes, and I heard a neat compliment paid to them by a girl."

"What did she say?"

The first poet laughed and there was a note of triumph in his voice.

"Why," he answered, "she wanted to know if I had written them."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

What gits us is why anybuddy as purty as th' woman in th' washin' machine ads didn' marry somebuddy that wuz able t' keep help. "I feel so at home there," a woman 'll say in gushin' o'er some place she's been, when if she'd felt that why she couldn' have stood it.

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

8 Minutes to Answer This.

There are various methods of dissecting a six-pointed star with a view to reforming the pieces into a square, but of course the "best" answer would be that requiring the least possible number of pieces. So let us see who can transform the star into a square in the "best" way.
